BRITAIN'S FEARS OF WAR IN EUROPE

EUROPEAN WAR "POSTPONED"

Nazi Propaganda In Austria

"War is not imminent, but has merely been postponed," says the Washington correspondent of S. E. Levy and Company, commenting on the Austrian situation.

"The Nazi Party is renewing propaganda urging voluntary incorporation of Austria with Germany, which will cause a crisis in a few months or possibly in a year."

PURIFYING TENNIS AMATEURS

NEW RULES BY THE I.L.T.F.

EIGHT WEEKS OF EXPENSES

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1921. Received July 31, 10.25 a.m.)

London, July 30.
A tightening up of amateur regulations in the tennis world is to be undertaken next season.

At to-day's meeting of the International Lawn Tennis Federation held in London, the delegates decided against the proposal of American seeking permission for the organisation of "Open Tournaments" in which both amateurs and professionals would compete together.

It was also ruled that amateurs playing in exhibition matches with professionals without first securing the permission of the International Federation will be banned.

EIGHT WEEKS A YEAR.

A further, and possibly more important decision, affects amateurs in all countries. It was decided that no amateur player may receive travelling and living expenses for more than eight weeks in any one year, including the time spent in travelling, unless special sanction has first been obtained from his national association.

Amateurs playing in a foreign country must conform to the rules of that country regarding the payments of living and travelling expenses, in addition to the rules of his own country.—Reuter Special.

"B. P." TO VISIT FAR EAST

LADY BADEN-POWELL AS WELL

Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell, the Chief Scout, is to pay a visit to the Far East before the end of the year.

The news is unexpected because it was only a few months ago that Lord Baden-Powell was seriously ill and had to undergo two serious operations and take an extended sea voyage before he was restored to normal health. His decision to make the trip overseas is probably partly inspired by a desire to avoid the rigours and dangers of an English winter.

The Chief Scout and Lady Baden-Powell will leave London on October 27, in the Orient liner Orana and will change ships at Colombo for a tour of the Straits, China and Japan, after which they go on to Australia to attend the Centenary celebrations.

A dinner dance will be held at the Raffles Hotel to-morrow, Wednesday, The Andonians Band will again be in attendance.

AIR FORCE EXPANSION

MR. BALDWIN'S EXPLANATION

UNEASINESS ON CONTINENT

London, July 30.

The House of Commons to-night debated the Government's provisional programme for increasing, during the next five years, the Royal Air Force by 41 squadrons.

In describing the circumstances which led the Government to adopt this course, Mr. Baldwin said questions of Imperial Defence and of disarmament had occupied the mind of the Government for many years past, but never had a survey of these problems been conducted under conditions of greater difficulty and more constant change than in the last twelve months.

The difficulty of working for a Disarmament Convention had been increased not only by the absence of Germany from international councils, but by the fact there had seemed throughout the year little probability of getting Germany in the near future to join once more in these discussions.

UNEASINESS IN EUROPE.

Moreover, there had been events in various parts of Europe creating a greater sense of uneasiness than had hitherto been experienced. There was a spirit abroad in parts of Europe, which, if it could not be curbed, might some day make the task on which their thoughts were centred impossible of achievement.

It was in these circumstances that they had seen in the majority of nations working on this question of disarmament a move towards increasing their armaments rather than to decrease them.

FUTURE UNCERTAIN.

The future was uncertain. They could not tell yet whether success would attend the formation of the Eastern Locarno agreement, and this uncertainty must have its reactions on the work at Geneva. Another factor which must exercise an important influence on the whole question was the success or otherwise of next year's Naval Conference.—British Wireless.

WELSH FUSILIERS COMING

DUE IN COLONY IN NOVEMBER

Under the provisional troop programme for the 1934-35 season the Dorsetshire is due to arrive here on November 9 and leave for the north on the same day. She will return on November 30 and proceed to the United Kingdom, calling at intermediate ports enroute and disembarking troops details.

The Somersetshire arrives here on November 22 with the 2nd, Bn. Royal Welsh Fusiliers on board. They will disembark and the vessel will proceed to Shanghai and the northern ports, returning on November 29 to embark the 1st, Bn. South Wales Borderers for India.

The Somersetshire makes her second trip to the Far East in January next year and will arrive in Hongkong on February 27 with details for Far Eastern stations. She returns to the United Kingdom the following month.

London, July 30.
To-day in the Commons, Sir Philip Sassoon, Under-Secretary for Air, informed Mr. William Nunn that the establishment of a branch from the England-Australia Air Line to Hongkong and Shanghai is being considered; but negotiations are insufficiently advanced for a statement at the present time.—Reuter.

DRAMATIC STORY IN NAZI TRIAL

SAFE CONDUCT PROMISE PREDICAMENT

MIDNIGHT CLOSURE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1921. Received July 31, 10.32 a.m.)

Vienna, July 31.

The court-martial of the Nazi rebels charged with the murder of Dr. Dollfuss in the raid upon the Chancellery proceeded throughout the day without reaching a conclusion.

The court continued the trial until midnight in the hope of terminating the case, but decided

MURDER TRIAL SURPRISE

BOTH ACCUSED ACQUITTED

ON INSTRUCTION OF COURT

The failure of the Crown to pin the Nam Hang Temple slaying down to either of the two accused led to a sensational conclusion of the murder trial of Lam Sang and his alleged lover, Wong Ying, at the Criminal Sessions this morning, when the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor, instructed the jury to return a verdict of "Not Guilty" against both accused.

The acquittal followed a submission by Mr. Leo D'Almada on behalf of the woman that there was no case to answer.

His Lordship had already ruled against Mr. H. C. Macnamara, appearing for the male accused, on this same point.

The Chief Justice agreed with Mr. D'Almada's submission that the Crown had failed to attach the actual killing to either party and though the jury might think that (a) one of them did it, (b) either of them might have done it, and (c) both of them might have done it, they must in those cases return a verdict in favour of the accused.

The deceased was Chu Kwai, the husband of the woman accused, who had left him to live with Lam Sang.

at that hour to adjourn until nine o'clock this morning.

It is officially announced that Dr. Stefan Tauschnitz, Austrian Minister to Germany and Denmark, is to return to Berlin as active Minister.—United Press.

PUBLIC NOT ADMITTED.

Vienna, July 31.
The public were not admitted to the heavily-guarded court when the trial opened before a special court-martial yesterday of Otto Panetta and Iloz Weber, the Nazis accused of the murder of Dr. Dollfuss.

They are each charged with firing one shot.

IN PLAIN CLOTHES.

Panetta and Weber were wearing plain clothes at the trial, but the faces were removed from their shoes for fear that they might attempt suicide.

The Public Prosecutor declared that the two shots that struck the Chancellor would not have been fatal. Dr. Dollfuss died of haemorrhage because he was not allowed medical aid.

According to an interview given to a newspaper, Madame Panetta has expressed a desire to see Frau Dollfuss. "I think she and her children must not hate me,"—Reuter.

Later.

Sensational admissions by Government witnesses caused a predicament and high words between the Bench and counsel for the defence in the court-martial proceedings.

The first sensation came when Plonetta declared that the Police Vice-President, Herr Stuhl, promised them that if the murderer confessed, the rest would be freed. He then confessed but none was freed.

Stuhl admitted the offer as far as it concerned the murder of Dollfuss and no former members of the Army or police.

Herr Neustadter-Stuerner admitted that he still offered safe conduct to the rebels after he knew that Dollfuss was dead. He said he was confronted with a different situation when he learned that Dollfuss was murdered, not killed in an equal fight.

"I gave my word of honour as an officer, but I leave it to the court to decide whether this was a soldier's deed, or a cowardly, dastardly murder,"—Reuter.

GERMAN AGITATION IN AUSTRIA

BRITAIN TO TAKE NO ACTION

London, July 30.

Sir John Simon to-day replied to Parliamentary questions on the subject of German interference in Austrian internal affairs.

He said that in February last, and again recently, he received from the Austrian Government a collection of material indicating considerable German influence in propaganda against the Austrian Government and in a series of outrages committed on Austrian territory. He understood that the material was also communicated by the Austrian Government to the Italian and French Governments.

NO ACTION CALLED FOR.

In acknowledging its receipt, he informed the Austrian Minister that whilst the British Government had no intention, whatever of interfering with the internal affairs of another country, they fully recognised the right of Austria to demand that there should be no interference with her internal affairs from any other quarter. The views of the British Government on this matter remained unchanged.

Further asked what steps the Government were taking to preserve Austria's independence, Sir John Simon said the British Government were continuing to watch the situation carefully, but no action on their part was at present called for or in contemplation.—British Wireless.

QUOTAS FORCED ON CEYLON

COLONIAL OFFICE INSTRUCTION

GOVERNOR TO USE POWERS

London, July 30.

An anti-Japanese quota is to be imposed in Ceylon over the head of the Legislative Council, on orders to the Governor (Sir Edward Stubbs) from the Colonial Office.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, replying to a question by Major H. A. Proctor (Conservative), to-day, said that the Governor of Ceylon had reported that the Board of Ministers do not propose to introduce legislation for the regulation of imports of foreign cotton and artificial piece goods, which policy has been generally adopted by the Colonies, which are free to take such action.

The Government feel it to be impossible that Ceylon should be excluded from a particular Imperial policy which is regarded as essential in the economic interests of the Empire as a whole. They have therefore decided to make use of their powers of legislation by Order-in-Council which have always existed and which were reserved in the Order-in-Council establishing the Ceylon Constitution.

Accordingly an Order-in-Council will be made investing the Governor of Ceylon with power to regulate textile imports by quota in the same way as such imports are being regulated in other parts of the Colonial Empire.—Reuter.

The Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force will proceed to sea for manoeuvres this evening in launches kindly lent by the A.R.C. T.S. Dock, Hongkong and Whampoa Dock and Messrs. Butterfield and Swire. They will leave at 8 p.m. and return about 7.30 p.m.

CANTON & NANKING

BRIGHT HOPES OF RAPPROCHEMENT

SOUTH-WEST'S PROPOSALS

Nanking, July 31.

A bright prospect of a readjustment of relations between Nanking and Canton, heralding the complete unification of the country, seems to be emerging from recent negotiations.

A lengthy memorandum covering measures for the solution of various important problems, which the South-West authorities have addressed to Chiang Kai-shek, was brought here to-day by Mr. Cheng Kai, the emissary of General Chai-tong, Marshal Li Tsung-yen and General Pei Tsung-hai.

Mr. Cheng Kai is on his way to Nanking.

The memorandum, which contains about five thousand words, recommends detailed measures for a joint anti-Communist drive by the forces of the two Kwangs and the Central Government, under the command of the Generalissimo in Kiangsi.

Further proposals deal with schemes for the rehabilitation of the Communist-ridden provinces following the conclusion of the drive, and deals with other important issues vital to cooperation between the Central Government and the South-West.—Reuter.

NAVAL TALKS IN LONDON

ITALY AND BRITAIN GET TOGETHER

London, July 30.

The preliminary naval conversations between Italy and Great Britain were described as friendly and satisfactory in a Foreign Office communique issued this evening.

The talks went on during the morning and afternoon; the principal representatives being Captain Biscia (Italy) and Rear-Admiral Bellairs (Britain).

The question of Italy's intended construction of two 35,000-ton battle-cruisers was not discussed, this issue being considered as outside the scope of the present talks, which are likely to conclude to-morrow.—Reuter.

Mrs. Curtis Dall was granted a divorce to-day after a ten-minute trial, which was held behind closed doors out of deference to the President.

The custody of the children is granted to Mrs. Dall under a written agreement, the details of which have not been disclosed.—Reuter.

GOLD BLOC CRASH EXPECTED

STRONG PRESSURE ON STERLING

U.S. READY FOR INFLATION

Exchange restrictions in Europe are impending in an attempt to stop the flight of capital to the United States, according to the Washington correspondent of S. E. Levy and Company.

Strong belief is entertained that a break will occur in the gold bloc. Fears are even expressed about the activities of the Exchange Equalisation Fund manipulators. It is becoming increasingly difficult to hold sterling at above Five Dollars.

A currency war once again looms ominously on the horizon. Messrs. Levy's Washington correspondent says that the United States will not hesitate to depreciate the dollar further or to print paper currency to the value of $1,000,000,000 if sterling should break badly as is feared in some quarters.

SILVER CERTIFICATES?

Washington, July 30.
The Washington Administration is believed to take the view that the exigent political troubles abroad might possibly actuate economic pressure, expected to drive the gold countries into monetary experiments. A sudden break in the gold bloc is looked for.

In the event that the pound sterling breaks, the Administration will probably further reduce the gold content or print about a billion dollars in money, possibly in the form of silver certificates, in the expectation that this will start inflationary buying.

There is at present a critical sentiment towards the Administration because of the indefinite business outlook, with the N.R.A. codes apparently checking moves towards recovery.

It is generally felt here that the drought is not a serious factor for national business.—Swan, Culbertson and Fritz.

ANIMAL WATCHED FOR RABIES

A woman named Tam Chung has been sent to the Kowloon Hospital in consequence of having been bitten by a cat belonging to Mr. Ip Cheung-wai, of Kowloon City. The cat has been sent to the Matakook depot for observation.

Two further cases of dog-bites have been reported to the police. A chair coiled named Cheung Nam-hong has been sent to the Government Civil Hospital after having been bitten whilst carrying a chair in Robinson Road, while in the other case a man named Au Lai has also been sent to hospital following a bite which he received from a dog belonging to a man named Tai Choy. The dog has been sent to Kennedy Town depot.

Kick Your Way to Slimmer Calves and Thighs

Above is an illustration of the second step in an exercise to reduce calves and thighs.

By Alicia Hart

Within the past month a number of girls have asked for an exercise to reduce calves and thighs. Here it is:

Lie flat on your stomach with arms folded under your chin and feet together on the floor. Now, bending the right knee, bring the leg quickly upward, forcing the right heel against the buttocks.
Reverse the exercise, bringing the left leg and heel upward. Repeat ten times, first with one leg and then with the other. Rest a few seconds and begin again, keeping ankles together and kicking both feet against the buttocks at the same time.

The exercise should be done night and morning, gradually increasing the number of upward kicks from 10 to 100. It tends to reduce the backs of the legs as well as the thighs and keeps the muscles and skin from becoming flabby while you're losing weight in those spots. Of course, if you are serious about reducing any part of the body, watch your diet and do exercises with regularity. It does no good to practice an exercise once a week instead of every day and it is useless to cut down on food for one meal and then eat double portions of everything at the next one. Eat moderately and exercise conscientiously if you want to lose weight.

YOUR CHILDREN.

Give Deserving Child Credit

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Well, let's see it." Billy's dad looked at Billy's mother, who nodded knowingly, pride shining in her eyes as if to say, "I knew all along he could do it. Only you just wouldn't wait."

Billy rushed off to get "it."
Much banging of books upstairs and then three long jumps down the flight.

The report card, dog-eared and dog-tired from many trips and much adventure, was in the enemy's hand at last, an enemy sceptical even now of good news.

Out of a Hole

He had passed. After five months of pushing, pulling, punching, pounding and preening, he had gotten through the hole, the long dark tunnel, rather in which the rock of spelling had just about blocked the path.

But there was the "70" burning a triumphant torch that meant liberty. Over it, in the same column, flickered faint 50's and 60's and that month he had mumps, the report had registered a subnormal temperature of 45.

He scanned his father's face anxiously.

His mother said, "See, daddy, what he can do when he tries hard.
And he has tried so terribly, terribly hard this month. Now he has passed on to the next grade.
And better still, he sees what hard work will do. I'm so proud of him

I could—well, just kiss him."
And she did.

Dad knocked his cigarette ash off on the tray and leaned back impatiently. "Yes," he admitted grudgingly, "he's passed—just. I don't see any 90's at all, though, and not a single hundred on the whole card. Bill, you'll have to do better than that next year. I'm still very much ashamed of this whole card."

"Fred failed in arithmetic," said
Billy soberly. "It was hard.
See!" he pointed, "I made 80. Nobody made more than that." A thick little finger found the spot.

Chance for Encouragement

"Such hands! Go and get washed and then I'll talk to you. No wonder this card looks like a dirty rag."

"But, daddy, aren't you proud of him?" begged mother. "He thought you would be glad—very glad."

"Glad? For doing what he ought to do. I'm thoroughly tired of his laziness."

"Well, I'm proud of him," she sighed. "Come on, dear. Get washed. Dinner's ready."

Billy climbed the stairs wondering why the harder you tried the less credit you got. Why try at all? It was the same both ways.
If he got all 90's next year his father would scold because they weren't hundreds.

His father had missed the best chance he ever had or ever would have of encouraging his son—creating a precedent of unalloyed joy by giving praise where it was due. Billy would have tried to recreate that moment in future effort. Next year will likely be as bad as this.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF.

Getting Rid of Superfluous Hair

By Alicia Hart.

Personal daintiness is one of the first requisites of beauty and no amount of exterior grooming or fashionable clothes can make up for a deficiency in it. A girl gains nothing by flawless makeup, a smart coiffure and a becoming frock if she has stained teeth, obvious superfluous hair or a neck that is slightly grimy.

The first step toward daintiness, of course, is the daily bath. After that, there is the matter of depilatories. Decide just which superfluous hair-removing method you prefer and then practice it as often as is necessary.

Shaving with a razor is the simplest method but in the long run it will tend to thicken and coarsen the hair. Generally speaking, a commercially prepared depilatory will prove more satisfactory.
There are various creams that are to be smoothed on legs, arms and underarms, left on for several minutes (unless directions on the jar state otherwise) and then washed off. The hair rinses off with the cream.

Wax depilatories are most effectacious. They not only remove the hair but tend to weaken it as well. However, if you decide to get a wax, make up your mind to follow the directions that come with it. Never use a deodorant under the arms until the second day after removing superfluous hair.

SOPHIE KERR'S LATEST SUCCESS IN ROMANTIC PROBLEM FICTION "STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

JANE TERRY comes to New York determined to show her home town a success of her life. Amy had been her best friend until HOWARD JACKSON broke the engagement. Jane forced on him and married Amy. Unable to bear the sight of Amy's happiness, Jane obtained a job in a New York real estate office.

Jane is clever and soon is making an excellent salary. She has an affair with ROGER THORPE, a business acquaintance who is married. Later she tries to kill him and when he offers to bear the expense of their child she dismisses him contemptuously. In her desperate plight Jane turns to Amy for help. Howard is touring Germany with another professor and Amy comes to New York. She is horrified when Jane tells her she plans to give her child away.

CHAPTER XVI

Amy's voice was reproachful. "But a helpless child, Jane, who didn't ask to be born—"

"None of us asked to be born," Jane answered. "I wish to heaven I'd never been. I wish I were dead. I've wished it a thousand times—ever since—"

"But Jane, this man. Hasn't he any decent feeling? He ought to be looking out for you. Doesn't he care? Don't you care anything about him?"

"No, I don't. I even loathe thinking about him."

Amy knew Jane was speaking the truth. "But you must have loved him," she persisted. "After all, you couldn't have lived with him without caring something about him, at first, anyway."

"I loved Howard," said Jane dully. "This man was exciting, and he flattered me and made love to me, and I met him half-way. If you want to know, Oh, you can look at me, Amy, and be horrified, but I don't see why women shouldn't have affairs like men, and think no more about it. There's no reason why not. Is there, honestly?"

"I don't know that there is, only I can't think so. It's one of the things that sound all right, but never work out."

"I can see that last pretty plain myself, now. But I did love Howard, Amy, and after I knew he didn't love me—can't you understand, this other man going so crazy about me made me feel better, made me like myself again when I'd been hating myself. I was awful to you about Howard, Amy. But you knew it was because it hit me so hard."

"Yes, I did know. Jane I'm so sorry."

"There's no use being sorry. We won't drag that stuff out again. You're going to stay with me, aren't you, Amy? If you only knew how glad I am to see you, and to have somebody I can talk to and be natural with. Stay a little while, Amy, even if it's only a few days. I'll die if you leave me."

"Yes," said Amy. "I'm going to stay. I'll send Mother a telegram. I'll have to get my bag. It's checked—at the station. And I ought to cancel my Pullman."

"And have your ticket extended. I'll send the maid. She's smart—too smart sometimes. You don't want to go out in this heat again." Jane had become normal, practical. She sat down at her desk, wrote directions, addresses, then rang for the maid and started her off. Emma, Kitty's successor, was another West Indian, quiet and intelligent.

Amy took off her hat, washed her face and hands and tried to compass the utter strangeness of the situation. This was so difficult that she retreated to trivialities. She found herself telling Jane scraps of Marburg news. Vanny Hough's new car, Louise March's marriage to a man from Chicago, Henry Berwyn's accident in his boat, Edgar Moreland's engagement to a girl who had visited the Pattersons.

"That's funny," said Jane, who had been listening with scant interest. "I never thought Edgar would care about any girl but you. The boys all liked you, Amy. You were far and away the most popular girl in town."

"Whatever that may mean. Edgar wasn't serious about me. It was just that we'd known each other all our lives."

"I don't believe anybody really loves more than once," went on Jane. "Do you?"

"I don't know what I believe about love—except—except that it's the only miracle we ever know.

Nothing else explains it." She stopped, embarrassed by speaking out a secret thought. They mustn't talk like this. She looked about the apartment. "This is a very queer place, Jane," she continued. "I thought you told me last year that you had grass cloth on the walls."

"Oh, I took that off when I went Spanish. You don't like this?"

"I'm not sure. I never saw anything like it before."

"I know," said Jane, rallying. "You don't think any place can be lived in if there's no piano. I'll rent one for you while you're here."

"Oh, mercy, don't think of it. Goodness only knows what it would cost."

"I can afford it," said Jane cockily. "I've made heaps of money. I invested the money my father left in Aunt Rosa's trust and more than doubled it."

For the first time since she had entered the house Amy laughed. "That sounds like the old Jane, indeed it does."

"Bringing you mean," Jane laughed a little, too. "But Amy, it's true. I have made a lot of money and I'll make a lot more once I get out of this mess. You know I was always clever about money. I'll telephone for a piano. They can bring it in the morning and then you can play as much as you want. There's nothing else to do while we're waiting."

It was not until late that night, after Amy had gone to bed on the Spanish couch and was lying there awake by the unaccustomed place and noise, that it occurred to her that Jane had never once asked her to keep her secret. This confidence touched Amy profoundly.

"She knows I'd never tell," she thought. "But I'm awfully glad she didn't ask me not to. It makes everything better between us."

It was good to be with Jane again, the grudge wiped out. But Jane! To have done this mad, this awful thing! "She's brave," thought Amy. "She's got a fierce—" relentless sort of courage that never gives in. I don't see why she hasn't gone raving mad. I don't believe it seems real to her, any more than it does to me."

She wondered about Thorpe, what sort of a man he might be, and she thought, with humility and thankfulness of her own marriage, and of Howard, and their happiness, their content together. She remembered what she had said to Jane—"I only wish this was my child!" A child was the only thing that could add to her and to Howard's life.

"I must persuade Jane not to send her away to be adopted," she thought. "That would be a lot more wicked than just having it." She drifted into sleep intent on Jane's duty to her child.

It was as easy as Jane had said. Amy soon found, to arrange to stay. Mrs. Love was willing to look after Amy's house and promptly sent on a supply of clothes, with a letter saying, "Stay as long as you like, and have a good time. It will keep you from missing Howard so much. Indeed, I don't see why you shouldn't stay until he comes back."

For the piano had come and was a great resource. Amy played or practiced when she did not feel like talking. The days were too hot to go out in. Emma marketed and cooked and Amy and Jane lived quiet and withdrawn in the semi-twilight of the apartment, with nothing to do except try to keep cool. Because Amy insisted, Jane bought a few infants' clothes and also consulted a doctor. She knew of no one in particular, so they chose the nearest, a man with an office at the corner. He seemed sensible and capable, but very detached and professional, his interest for the case, not the human being. Jane's unmarried state did not seem to surprise him, but he did raise his voice in protest when she said she would not go to a hospital. Amy listened to the dispute between Doctor Lacey and Jane with mingled anxiety and amusement, for each was obstinacy to the hilt. In the end Jane won out and Doctor Lacey reluctantly said he would attend her in her home.

"I'll send you a nurse when it's time for you to have one," he said firmly.

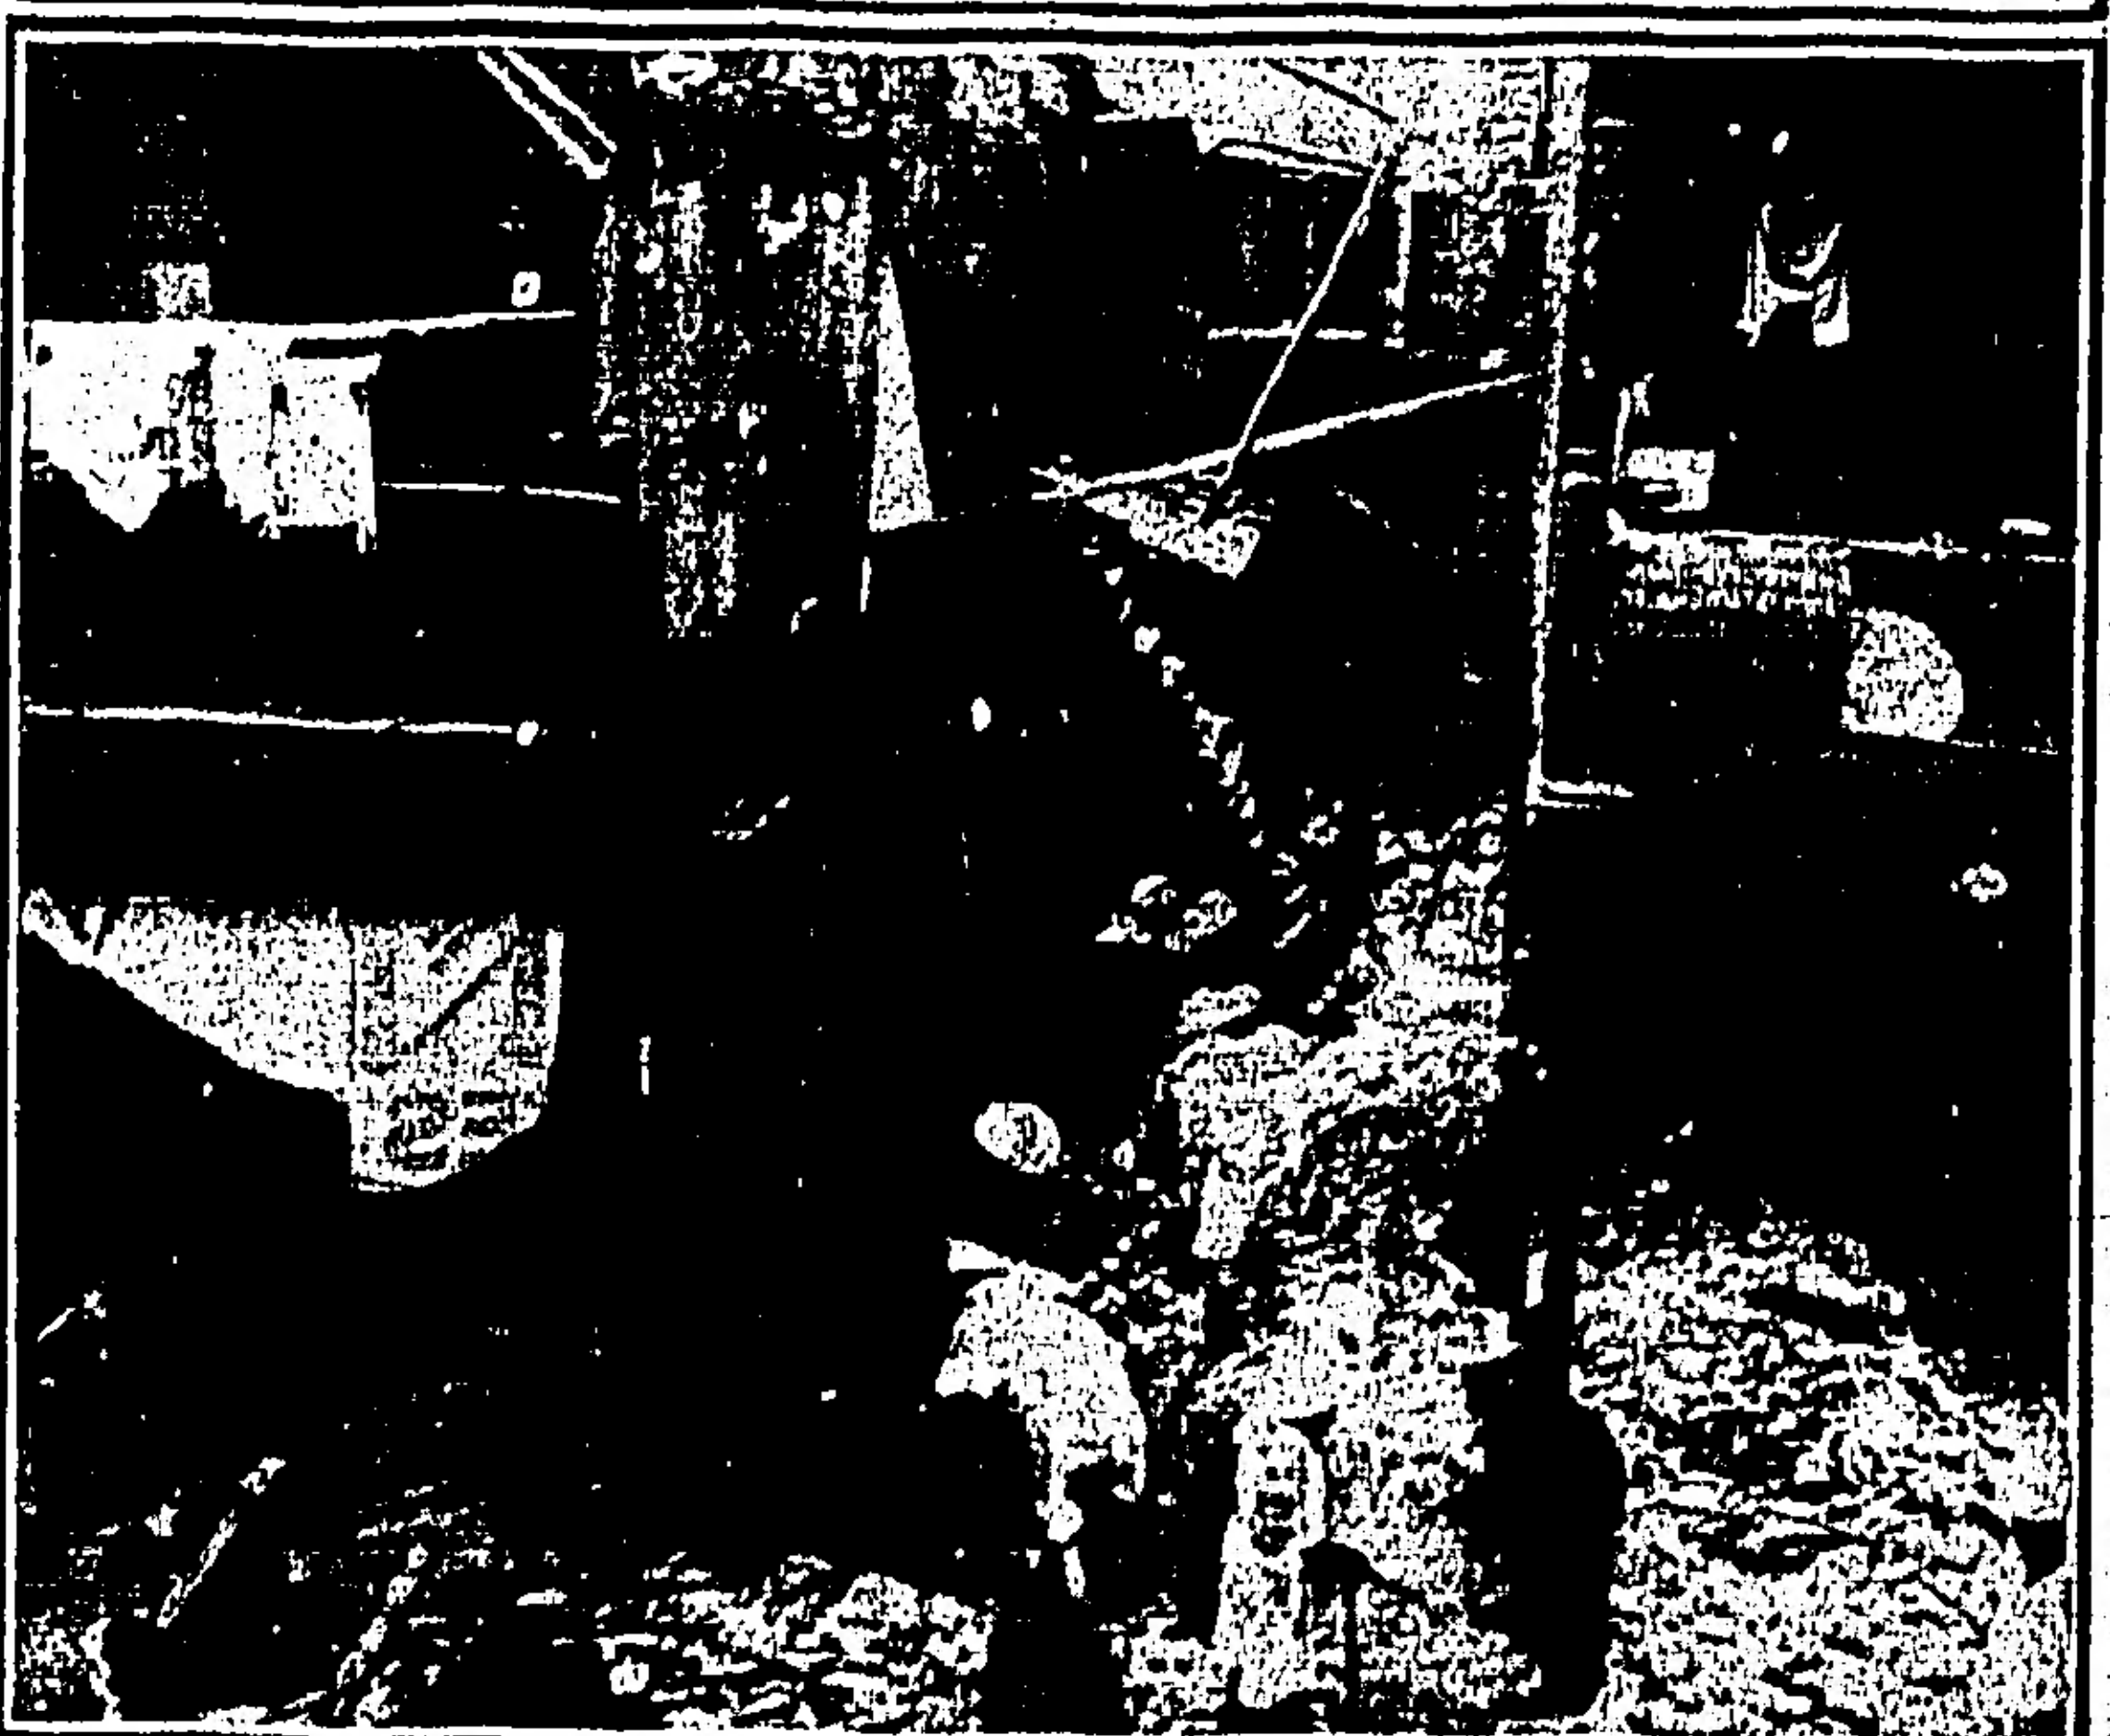

And just as firmly Jane replied: "You can send a nurse when I ask for one, and not before."

"You're running a serious risk," he warned her.

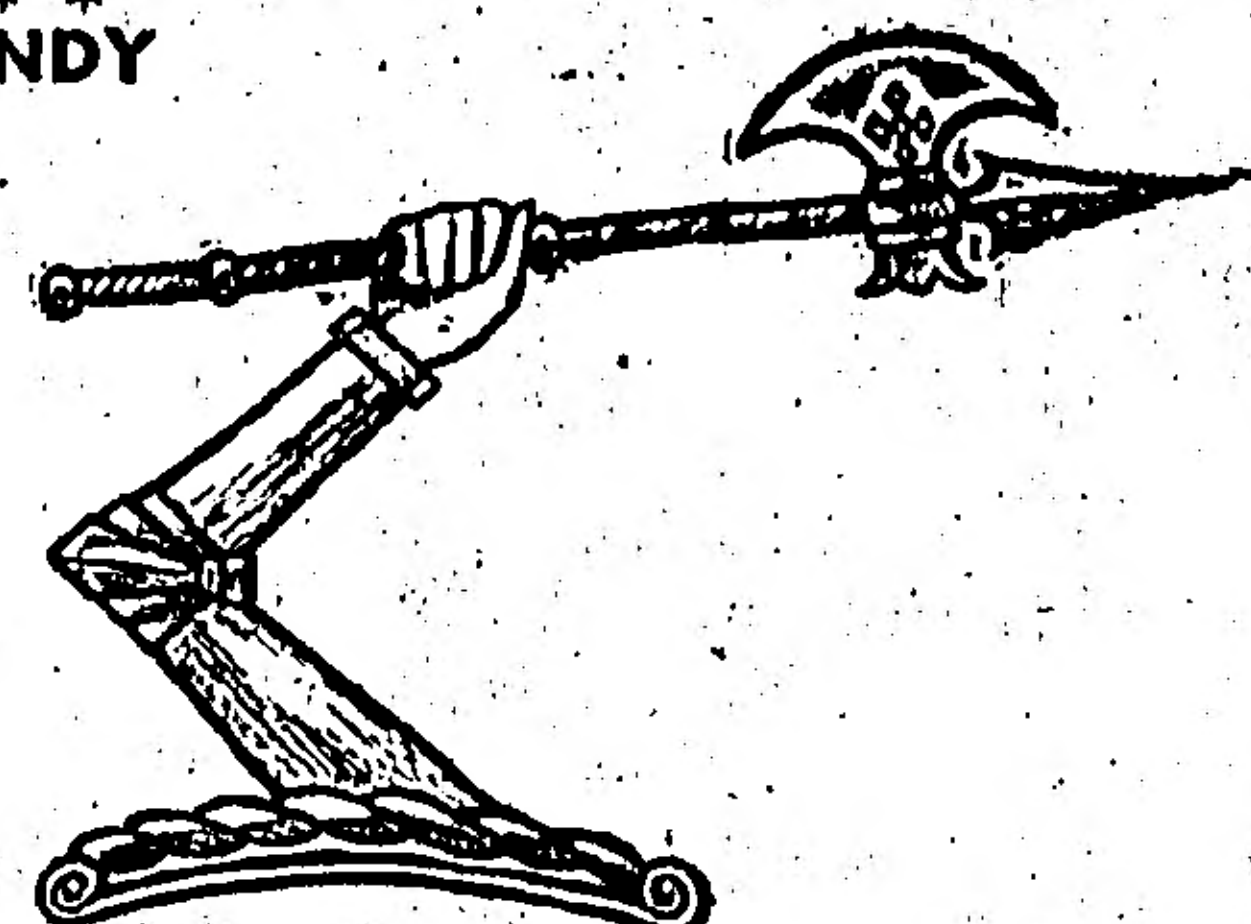

"It's my risk," she said. (To Be Continued.)

There are those in Shanghai residing in the French Concession and parts of the western district who were inclined to disbelieve that heavy rain fell in the central district last week. But look at these pictures taken at the corner of Nanking Road and also on the Bund. That's rain isn't it? It was one of the vagaries of local weather that prevented the whole city getting a drizzling.

The lower photograph gives a vivid idea of the extent of the collapse of the two-story Chinese shop located at the corner of Nanking Road, which eight Chinese were buried in Shanghai last week. One Chinese woman was killed and she suffered extensive injuries. The upper photograph shows a difficult task extricating the victims from the pile of debris. The upper picture shows the barrier erected by the police with the crowd behind.

LONDON TAILORING CRAFTSMEN—

—ARE WAITING to receive your order for your lounge suit, plus-four suit, dress suit or overcoat.

These craftsmen are highly skilled, and they know the work and materials a good suit requires. These men are proud of their productions, and that is why the London-made suit has no counterpart throughout the world.

It is necessary for us to work with charts, as well as measurements, and this point ensures complete satisfaction.

Courtline Linings, Syddo Interlinings, hand-sewing wherever possible, and hand-sewn edges—all correctly used—lend those subtle touches which distinguishes the London-made suit from all others.

For weeks now, we have been accepting orders on the recommendations of last season's successes.

DEATH.
WARREN.—In London, on 29th July, 1934, John Percival Warren, aged 68.

TUESDAY, JULY 31, 1934.

THE CHURCH AND ITS MINISTERS

The Colony will be all the poorer by Dr. E. L. Allen's resignation from the pastorate of the Kowloon Union Church, which is to take effect from the end of the present year. During his stay here, Dr. Allen has revealed himself to be not only a deep thinker and a keen student of world affairs, but, above all else, a man of deep religious convictions, the guiding principles of which he endeavours to apply to everyday life. It is precisely because he possesses the courage of these convictions that he has, after much pondering of the step, reached the conclusion that he should drop out of the professional ministry. So much is apparent from the terms in which he announced his decision on Sunday morning. It is no overstatement of the facts to say that Dr. Allen's case is that of many other ministers of the Gospel who feel that they cannot make their maximum contribution to life under the conditions required of them by institutional or organised religion. Some of them, whilst feeling thus, none the less refrain from making the break; the more courageous and the more honest-minded take the plunge and are prepared to put their principles to the test, come what may. Like many others, Dr. Allen feels the constant over-emphasis on finance which is encountered in the professional ministry, and here also he is at one with many other pastors who fear that the spiritual life of the church is being in large measure subordinated to financial considerations. Feeling as he does, Dr. Allen naturally finds his convictions closer to those of the Society of Friends, or Quakers, than to those of any other Christian sect. For the whole basis of the Quakers' religion is purely individualistic, depending upon one's own personal experience, and is in this respect widely separated from the spirit of institutionalism associated with organised religion. To some people, it may be difficult to appreciate to the full the considerations which induce men like Dr. Allen to break away from the ministry, but they are none the less real on that account. Nor can the sincerity of those who take the step be questioned; they would be poor specimens of

NOTES OF THE DAY THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Publication in the Singapore newspapers of a list of sixty books just added to the Raffles Library, furnishes a reminder that Hong-kong's public library badly needs the injection of some fresh literature. Government has done its first work since taking over the library exceedingly well. Many of the books have been re-bound and the new catalogue and lay-out are a real boon to the library-user. But book-shelves that remain static in content must soon become worm-eaten for lack of use. An end soon comes to each individual's list of volumes that appeal to his taste. No very great effort is needed. Even the old City Hall Committee managed to provide a small but steady supply of new books. A thousand dollars a year would make a world of difference. Later, when the new City Hall is built, the public may ask a little more—a free circulating library that people will want to use, instead of a library for people who want to use it.

TINKERING WITH LAW

Even more than the proposed amendments to the Coroners Ordinance, the reforms contemplated in the jury ordinance suffer from the serious defect that they leave numerous important problems untouched. It seems a futile thing merely to tinker with legislation of this kind, if there is no real intention of remedying basic faults. The Coroners Ordinance is less to be criticised on this score than that concerning jury-men for it does, at least, furnish the machinery for supervision—and a strong Attorney General can prevent a repetition of incidents that have occasioned public censure in the past. The changes in the jury ordinance, on the other hand, consist principally of legalising minor illegalities which have grown into practice, and, desirable and necessary as this in itself may be, they supply no real advance.

WOMEN JURORS. WHY NOT?

If the legislation governing local jury service was worthy of official attention in order to bring it up to date, a little extra time spent in extending the principle of modernisation would not have been wasted. There is a heavy weight of argument that could be brought to support a suggestion for the empanelling of women jurors. And a still stronger case could be submitted for ending the system of acceptance of majority verdicts in criminal cases. The old system was perhaps necessary to save undue waste of time in days when the number of persons available for service was strictly limited. But to perpetuate the system nearly fifty years after the passing of the original ordinance—when the number on the live register is more than ten times greater—is definitely bad in principle, and a slur on the ways of justice in Hongkong.

OUR LAW-MAKERS

It is possible that good reason could be advanced by the Government's legal advisers for limiting reform to the point set down in the ordinance as amended. But the issues were ever debated. But is there any reason to expect discussion? Such a development in Council would set a precedent for the last ten years at least. It would almost rock the Constitution. A commentary upon local government that needs no adornment is contained in the simple statement of fact that never once in open Council in recent years, as far as memory serves, has an ordinance submitted to the Legislative Council been challenged in any single particular by an unofficial member. Perhaps, however, it is wrong to raise the voice of criticism; perhaps the correct thing to do is to compliment the Colony upon a succession of infallible incumbents of the office of Attorney General.

humanity if they continued in a given sphere against the dictates of their own convictions. Dr. Allen's case is, as we say, not an isolated one; we recall another such here in Hongkong, in which an ordained minister of the Anglican Church felt impelled to follow a like course for similar reasons. In the last resort, the matter is one for the individual himself. But it is not without its significance, at a time when organised religion in some of its forms seems to have lost much of its hold on mankind in general, that there should be these recurring instances of ministers of the church coming to realise the relative futility of their work under the conditions in which they are required to labour.

PATRIOTISM OF SPORT?

By ROBERT LYND

AS I sat at Lord's and watched the Australian batsmen delivering themselves one after another into Verity's hands to the accompaniment of sounds indicative of unholy joy on the part of the spectators, I could not help wondering how many of those present could sincerely repeat the traditional sportsman's prayer, "May the better side win!"

I do not know enough to be sure whether the Australians or the English are the better side this year; but I cannot help thinking that, when the heart has once begun to beat with excitement, the normal man longs above all for victory for his own side. If it can be achieved fairly, against any side in the world, however magnificent.

If it were not so, we should not find even the most magnanimous human beings cheering with glee because the weather, after making things easy for their own batsmen, changes in such a way as to make things extremely difficult for the opposing batsmen.

On the contrary, we should have found these magnanimous human beings looking up dolefully at the sky during the week-end of the Test match and bemoaning the fact that owing to the rain the Australians would not have the same fine batting wicket to play on as the English had had.

The truth is, however, few of us are so magnanimous as all that. We do not pray for the weather to be impartial. We like to take a hand in the game on our side—to become, as it were, a twelfth player of genius in the team—and we welcome any accident of sun, cloud or rain that may turn out to the advantage of our own men and to the disadvantage of the others.

This seems to me to be right. I suspect most of the people who say "May the better side win!" of not quite meaning what they say. The only man who can honestly say "May the better side win!" on the eve of a great match is either a man who believes that the never-failing Oldfield dropped a catch and so allowed Ames to score his century. Everybody was sorry for Oldfield and glad that the thing had happened. At the present stage in the evolution of human nature, that, I think, is as far as sportsmanship can go.

"May the better side win!" is a fine sentiment. It gives us an ideal to live up to. But, meanwhile, if a player on the other side slips on the wet grass and so misses an easy catch, we shall accept this as one of Fortune's gifts with little help that comes from winning the toss or from the weather or from any other piece of luck which will be duly welcomed.

We know that it does not really matter who wins a game, but we are not absolutely sure of this till the game is over.

Till then, most of us can say from our hearts, "May the best side win!" only if under our breath we add the whisper: "And, if there is any luck going, may it come to our side!"

Anyhow the country needed rain.

"I think your father ought to pay these fines. He's the one that bought you the car."

The Very Idea! CORN AND THINGS

By George

DEAR Agatha,
We received your kind letter this morning and are glad to tell you that we are better than you expected. We really have no spare razor blades at the moment but would suggest that you try starving your corn or tying a horse hair round it.

In anticipation of your further enquiry we have to say that we have no spare horses either but would suggest that you take lessons in riding or crib a hair from the boy friend. (We have no spare boy friends either).

We are sorry that neither the shingle nor the bingle, the cringle or the crumple style of hair seems to suit you: but we are not exhausted yet. Have you tried parting your hair in the middle and extending the parting to both ears? Your next crop may be a curly one.

We are inclined to agree with you about the pants. It's too bad your brother was annoyed at you cutting his flannels down but if he started cutting your flannels up, we agree pants are much better this hot weather. As pants the hart for cooling streams and so on.

Yours cornfully,
GEORGE.

THE OSTRICH.

EXTRACTS FROM ADA'S EXERCISE BOOK

The Ostrich is a bird with a long neck and a kick like a mule.

The ostrich is, a pretty dumb bird as it thinks when it hides its head in the sand that nobody can see it or if they can they will think it is a banyan tree.

The ostrich spends most of its time dropping eggs in the sand and looking for them again.

Although it comes from Australia, the ostrich is not a great cricketer. It has good delivery and can put its head under the mat but it can't stand a big belt with the ball in the belly.

The ostrich has a very musical voice and has been called the Nightingale of the Bush. When startled it will imitate a mudguard pushing a coolie against a wall and when calling to its mate it makes a noise like a fire extinguisher with a sore throat.

A good ostrich egg is a very impressive sight, being about the size of twenty ordinary eggs. The only egg more impressive than a good ostrich egg is a bad ostrich egg which smells twenty times as bad as the ordinary egg.

CHILD AND US.

Child: Uncle, please what is a Nasty?

Us: A nasty what?

Child: A Nasty Austrian.

Us: Hush, my child, you mustn't say things like that.

Child: Well, what is it?

Us: A Nazi is a man with a brown shirt who does Swedish exercises in the street for his country's sake.

Child: Are their Swedish Nazis?

Us: How should we know?

Child: Why do they do Swedish exercises?

Us: For the same reason that an English-speaking German Jew settles in China, buys American dollars, curses in Hindustani and plays Russian Pool.

Child: Why does he do that?

Us: Why does he do what?

Child: Why does a Hindustani Jew settle in Africa, swear in China, buy African dollars and play the fool?

Us: Go away.

Child: Why?

Us: Because you give us a pain in the neck.

Child: Why?

Us: Never mind, why. Just do as you're told or you'll get no candy. Run along now, you little brat. Shoo!

tion from amateur football. The mention of a period of six months in 17 cases, one year in one case and two years in two cases indicated merely that applications for reinstatement as amateurs, which might have been submitted at any time but for the special reference, would not be considered for those periods. Once declared professional, a footballer remains a professional for ever, unless he shows good cause to the governing body for reinstatement. The Singapore Amateur Football Association, to whom the application for reconsideration has been addressed, cannot take decisive action that will vary an important ruling of its own. The matter must be referred to the Football Association of Malaya which meets at Kuala Lumpur on Aug. 4. The Singapore Football Association is competent only to seek the permission of the senior body to vary its decision of March 28. That such permission will be sought and granted is virtually certain.

There is one other body concerned in this unfortunate occurrence and it deserves very high tribute for the correct and dignified attitude which it has adopted throughout. That is the Malay Football Association, to which the penalised players belong. That body has been very hard hit but, having agreed by the act of affiliation to accept the council of the Singapore Amateur Football Association as the judicial authority in such matters, it has rightly refrained from offering any comment on the decisions and from making any official representation, either on behalf of itself as a body or on behalf of individual members. Rigid adherence to this attitude is most praiseworthy and has doubtless tended to intensify sympathy among those who were compelled by the rules to take a serious view of the matter brought to their notice.

Those who have signed the application to the Singapore Amateur Football Association and have voluntarily refunded the sums in regard to the receipt of which they were declared professionals are: Salleh bin Yusoff, Mahmood bin Jallo, Mat Noor bin Kassim, Sarip bin Ali, Kassim bin Jallo, Dollah bin Ahmad, Yusoff bin Ahmad, Abdul Aziz bin Haji Jaffar, Said bin Sidik, Said bin Yusoff, Zarkast bin Haji Ibrahim,

P.A.A.F. AMENDMENTS DISPROVED

CRITICISM FOLLOWS IN WAKE OF
OLYMPIC GAMES DISPUTE

BIG SCHEME FOR DEVELOPING PHILIPPINES SPORT

Manila, July 28.

Governor General Frank Murphy was elected honorary president and Senate-President Manuel Quezon was re-elected executive president of the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation at the annual meeting of the board of governors of the Federation at Rizal Memorial Field yesterday afternoon. All the other members of the executive committee of the Federation were re-elected except H. A. Bordner whose place was filled by Dr. Gabriel Manalac.

The board of governors discussed various questions pertaining to the Federation and its members, including amendments to the constitution and changes in the by-laws and heard committee reports and recommendations.

MEMBERS PROTEST.

Three delegates registered their protest at the meeting against the action of the executive committee of the Federation in connection with the dissolution of the Far Eastern Amateur Athletic Association, and had their objections to this action spread upon the records. Those who registered their disapproval of the action were Mark Nestle, representing the Y. M. C. A.; Dr. Hamilton, representing Silliman Institute; and Jose D. Warren, representing the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

After a lengthy discussion the board of governors disapproved the amendment proposed by the Y. M. C. A. to the effect that to be eligible to compete in any open games, or meets held under the auspices of the Federation an athlete must have been a bona fide member for one year of that organization which he represents. The amendment was vigorously objected to by Col. H. S. Kerrick and Maj. Straughn of the U. S. Army; Prof. Candido Bartolome of the University of the Philippines; and Father Labrador of St. Thomas University. Despite an attempt to push through the proposed amendment by rewording it, 12 voted against the move; 7 voted in favour and 9 abstained from voting. The present rule requires only six months membership before an athlete can compete for an organization.

The board, however, approved the proposed changes in the by-laws as regards girls' indoor baseball rules. Those changes relate to the size and dimensions of the diamond, the number of players which shall be 10; base running, the pitcher, returning to bases; safety on a base and coaching rules.

PROMOTION OF ATHLETICS.

Among the proposals made by Mr. Vargas for the promotion of athletics in the islands were: 1. The construction of stadia in some important provincial centres; 2. To encourage the organization of national associations which may promote their respective sport; 3. the organization of district associations in all parts of the islands which will be authorized to regulate and control amateur meets in the district; 4. the promotion of athletics for women in various branches of sports.

The financial report shows that the Federation has total assets amounting to P1,015,343.82, including the recently constructed stadia. The current liabilities amount to P182,310.95.
The report of the operating department of the Far Eastern Games committee shows that the net profits from the Games amounted to P103,807.91. The total income was P110,257.27 while the expense totalled P6,449.36. Of the income P108,844.31 was for cash sales of ticket sellers; P105.60 85 shortages of tickets sellers deducted from salaries; P404.21 cash collection at the gate; P374.90 from sales of official programmes; and P500 receipts from concessions. The expenses were for

Solution to Previous
Contract Problem

Do you remember, in the days of auction, that we were afraid of a four-card suit, due to the fact that we never really knew whether we had a proper fit with our partner, or whether it was the proper declaration?

Take, for example, to-day's hand. South has a perfect four-card suit bid in spades, and his partner has normal support. However, North also has a five-card suit, and South has a perfect fit there.

HIKE FROM CANTON.

ADVENTUROUS PARTY ARRIVE SAFELY IN HONGKONG

A party of Canton boy-scouts arrived in the Colony on Sunday, after having hiked the entire distance from the Chinese city. They spent the night in Hongkong and yesterday paid courtesy visits to the local Commissioner. This morning they are due to sail for Macao, where they will represent, for the first time in the history of the movement, the Boy Scouts of Canton in an official visit to the Boy Scouts of Macao. The party will later hike back to Canton from Chungshan.

Taking advantage of their summer vacation, the party set out from Canton on a leisure hike on Wednesday last. They are returning the friendly visit made by Hongkong Scouts, who hiked to Canton last spring, in charge of the Rev. N. V. Halward, Assistant-Commissioner.

The party fell in at the Municipal Boy Scouts' Association at 8 a.m. last Wednesday and proceeded by car to Tai Sha Tau Station. From there, Mr. G. T. Waldegrave, local Commissioner, and the Rev. N. V. Halward, Assistant Commissioner, of the Canton-Kowloon Railway, assisted them by sending a telegram to all station masters requesting them to give the boys every assistance.

At nightfall the party made a halt at Mum Kong Station, where they camped until the next morning. The mosquitoes were annoying and, as a result, the party were given little opportunity for sleep. The weather, however, had been fine and 25 kilometres were covered the first day.

A start was made at five o'clock on Thursday morning from Mum Kong Station, where they had been treated to breakfast by the commander of the military police. Shek Lung was reached at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the distance covered being 37 kilometres. Heavy rain fell during the afternoon and the party were drenched when they camped for the night.

On Look Out for Bandits.

A later start was made on Friday, and after ten hours' hike they arrived at Cheung Muk Tau Station, a distance of 34 kilometres. Rain again fell during the journey.

As late travel between Lum Tsin and Tin Tong Wai Stations is not safe an early start was made on Saturday morning. The station master had warned them to be constantly on the look out for bandits but the party encountered nothing unusual in their trek to Shum Chun where they Commissions in Berlin.

Berlin, July 30.
Two Chinese investigating commissions have recently arrived here, one composed of members of the Kuomintang. They have been studying Fascism in Italy and are to study the evolution and constitution of Nazism here.
Later they will go to London to study the British democracy.
The other commission is composed of 18 members headed by General Shu Ching-lo. It is studying traffic control and will go to London shortly.—Our Own Correspondent.

arrived at 5 p.m. after walking 44 kilometres. The party had altered their original plans so that nobody was aware of their movements. Sunday was the worst of the four days for rain and after an early start the party walked through a heavy downpour until they reached Shatin at noon, having covered 30 kilometres. Mr. Hui Shu-fai, Commissioner of the Municipal Boy Scouts' Association of Canton met the party at the Railway Station.
On arrival in Hongkong the party duly paid their respects to the Rev. G. T. Waldegrave, local Commissioner, and the Rev. N. V. Halward, Assistant Commissioner. The Commissioner autographed the party's log book and wrote the following passage: "May the Canton Scouts' Touring Party find the rest of their hike a drier one and the mosquitoes, less inquisitive and may they get back safely."

The party was entertained last night by the Sea Scouts and this morning they will leave for Macao with a letter of introduction from the Vice-Consul for Portugal at Shum Chun. After their visit to the Portuguese colony they will leave for Chungshan from where they will hike back to Canton.
There are six members in the party. Alfred S. Ho, Lee Wong-on, T. K. Phong, S. Y. Chan, C. C. Leong and W. S. Tam.

HEAVY TARIFF

EVIL EFFECT ON CHINA REVENUE

London, July 30.
The continued decline of Customs revenue in China, indicated by the figures of the first three months of the year, has attracted the attention of the City, although Chinese loan values are not yet affected.

World depression is held partly responsible for the decline, but the crushing internal taxation is chiefly blamed, when combined with the successive increases in the Chinese tariffs.

It is strongly felt that the British Government should make friendly representations to China in connection with the uneconomic increases in the tariff, which are defeating China's own ends.

It is also suggested that China could afford to accept some quota arrangement with Manchukuo, without sacrificing her political principles respecting Manchuria.—Our Own Correspondent.

AID FOR CHINA.

Britain Approves Of League Assistance.

London, July 30.
Replying to questions from Mr. David Grenfell in the House of Commons to-day, Capt. Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, said the report of the League's Technical Agent on the mission to China had been transmitted to the technical organisations of the League for their consideration. Their observations were not yet available, he added.

The question of continued technical co-operation between the League of Nations and China would be discussed during the next session of the Assembly, he said.

The British Government would, in principle, approve of any assistance the League might give to China in the interests of China and the world generally.—Reuter.

MYSTERY MEN BEHIND AUSTRIA NAZI REVOLT

EXPECTATIONS OF REBELS

DRAMATIC EVIDENCE IN COURT MARTIAL

BENCH AND COUNSEL IN "BREEZE"

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, July 31, 11.33 a.m.)

VIENNA, July 31.

TWICE IN THE COURSE OF YESTERDAY'S DRAMATIC PROCEEDINGS IN THE COURT-MARTIAL OF THE NAZI REBEL RING-LEADERS, CRYPTIC ALLUSIONS WERE MADE BY ACCUSED TO EXPECTATIONS OF BACKING FROM RESPONSIBLE QUARTERS IN VIENNA.

"We were told before the revolt," declared Otto Panetta, self-confessed murderer of the Chancellor, "that high personalities would cover the insurgents." He added that the rebels were told not to shed blood unless they were forced to do so in self-defence.

Describing the scene at the Chancellery, Panetta said he entered a dark room and ordered a tall man (possibly Major Fey) to put his hands up. He suddenly felt his right arm touched and it was only then that he realised that there was another man in the room (the other man was Dr. Dollfuss).

PROMISES OF SAFE CONDUCT

It was then, apparently, that the shots were fired. "I saw him fall," said Panetta, who added that he later heard Dr. Dollfuss say:

"I RESIGN."

"I resign in favour of Rintelin." The Judge enquired of the accused what he went to the Chancellery for and what he wanted there.

Panetta replied that he wanted to arrest the whole government, he declined to answer when he was asked for his reason.

Holzweber also mentioned a mysterious individual who gave orders for the arrest of the Dollfuss Cabinet in the name of the President.—Reuter Special.

Sensational admissions by Government witnesses added to the predicament of the Court and high words between the Bench and the Counsel for the Defence lived up to the opening of the trial of the chief Nazi rebels.

An ex-soldier, Otto Panetta, who confessed to the shooting of Dr. Dollfuss, and Franz Holzweber, who is described as the leader of the rebels, are the accused in the trial which is taking place in a closely guarded court.

The public are not admitted. The first sensation came when Panetta declared that the Police Vice-President, Herr Stuhl, addressed the prisoners after their arrest and said that if the murderer of Dr. Dollfuss confessed, the rest would be freed.

PROMISE ADMITTED.

Herr Stuhl, giving evidence later admitted that he offered the rebels freedom as far as it did not concern the murder of Dr. Dollfuss, or any former members of the Army and the police.

Holzweber, who is charged only with treason referred to a mysterious personality who ordered him to arrest the Ministers "in the name of the Federal President."

"I did this," he added drily. The guard was re-doubled when Major Fey gave evidence. He admitted that he told Holzweber he could rely on the agreement being honoured.

SAFE CONDUCT "WORD"

Herr Neustadter-Stuerner, Minister of Social Welfare, admitted that he still offered a safe conduct to the rebels even after he knew that Chancellor Dollfuss was dead. He said that he was confronted with a different situation when he learned that the Chancellor had been murdered and not killed in an equal fight.

"I had given my word of honour as an officer, but I leave it to the Court to decide whether this was a soldier's deed or a cowardly, dastardly murder," he said.

DRAMATIC END.

The proceedings ended dramatically when the Counsel for the defence asked for an adjournment on the ground of the strain on the prisoners' counsel.

The Bench refused, whereupon the Counsel for the defence laid down his mandate and forced the Bench to adjourn until tomorrow.

The Bench has threatened to impeach the Counsel before the Disciplinary Chamber, and also rejected the request of the defence to call the German Minister, Dr. Rieth, and the new Chancellor, Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg.

The Court further refused an application for the reconstruction of the murder on the scene.—Reuter.

CONFISCATION OF PROPERTY.

Vienna, July 31. The confiscation of the property of all concerned in the Nazi revolt and forced labour in the concentration camps for minor offenders, has been decreed by the Austrian Cabinet at an extraordinary session which heard the report of the Secretary of Defence declaring that order had been completely restored throughout the country and that the last attempt rally the rebels had collapsed.—Reuter.

Nazi Propaganda In Austria

"War is not imminent, but has merely been postponed," says the Washington correspondent of S. E. Lery and Company, commenting on the Austrian situation.

AMERICAN NAVY EXPANSION

LEAGUE CONTINUES CAMPAIGN

CELEBRATION IN OCTOBER

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received July 31, 10.20 a.m.)

Washington, July 30. The United States is today more big Navy minded than ever before in its history, according to Mr. Claude Swanson, the Secretary of the Navy Department.

Referring to the Navy League to-day, in connection with the plans for Navy Day to be held on October 27, Mr. Swanson said:

"I approve of the League's policy and emphasise the importance of maintaining an orderly and systematic naval building programme, and also the importance of building up the merchant marine."

"Sea power may be defined as a country's strength in combatant ships, its merchant marine and its naval bases."

PERSONNEL SHORTAGE.

"In addition I suggest that it is of vital importance that we should maintain the navy personnel at sufficient strength adequately to man our combatant units."

It is reported that on July 1, the United States Fleet was only 83 per cent. manned, with a total of 82,500 seamen.

Report has it that about sixty destroyers were kept out of the fleet review in New York harbour because of a lack of man power.—United Press.

PURIFYING TENNIS AMATEURS

NEW RULES BY THE I.T.F.

EIGHT WEEKS OF EXERCISES

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received July 31, 10.05 a.m.)

London, July 30. A tightening up of amateur regulations in the tennis world is to be undertaken next season.

At today's meeting of the International Lawn Tennis Federation held in London, the delegates decided against the proposal of America seeking permission for the organisation of "Open Tournaments" in which both amateurs and professionals would compete together.

It was also ruled that amateurs playing in exhibition matches with professionals without first securing the permission of the International Federation will be banned.

EIGHT WEEKS A YEAR.

A further, and possibly more important decision, affects amateurs in all countries. It was decided that no amateur player may receive travelling and living expenses for more than eight weeks in any one year, including the time spent in travelling, unless special sanction has first been obtained from his national association.

Amateurs playing in a foreign country must conform to the rules of that country regarding the payments of living and travelling expenses, in addition to the rules of his own country.—Reuter Special.

AIR FORCE EXPANSION

MR. BALDWIN'S EXPLANATION

UNEASINESS ON CONTINENT

London, July 30. The House of Commons to-night debated the Government's provisional programme for increasing, during the next five years, the Royal Air Force by 41 squadrons.

In describing the circumstances which led the Government to adopt this course, Mr. Baldwin said questions of Imperial Defence and of disarmament had occupied the mind of the Government for many years past, but never had a survey of these problems been conducted under conditions of greater difficulty and more constant change than in the last twelve months.

The difficulty of working for a Disarmament Convention had been increased not only by the absence of Germany from international councils, but by the fact there had seemed throughout the year little probability of getting Germany in the near future to join once more in these discussions.

UNEASINESS IN EUROPE.

Moreover, there had been events in various parts of Europe creating a greater sense of uneasiness than had hitherto been experienced. There was a spirit abroad in parts of Europe, which, if it could not be cured, might some day make the task on which their thoughts were centred impossible of achievement.

It was in these circumstances that they had seen in the majority of nations working on this question of disarmament a move towards increasing their armaments rather than to decrease them.

FUTURE UNCERTAIN.

The future was uncertain. They could not tell yet whether success would attend the formation of the Eastern Locarno agreement, and this uncertainty must have its reactions on the work at Geneva. Another factor which must exercise an important influence on the whole question was the success or otherwise of next year's Naval Conference.—British Wireless.

AMERICAN WHEAT PRODUCTION

NEW LOW RECORD PREDICTED

Washington, July 30. Professor Warren and Professor Pearson, of Cornell University, predict a record low level in the United States for per capita wheat production this year.

The Export and Import Bank is expanding credit facilities throughout the country in order to stimulate world trade.

The Bennett estimate for cotton production this year amounts to 8,840,000 bales, while Messrs. Clement, Curtis & Co., estimate 8,890,000 bales. Both of these production figures are far below the actual production figures of last year, which showed a crop of 12,961,000 bales.—Swan, Culbertson and Fritz.

CANTON & NANKING

BRIGHT HOPES OF RAPPROCHEMENT

SOUTH-WEST'S PROPOSALS

Nanking, July 31.

A bright prospect of a readjustment of relations between Nanking and Canton, heralding the complete unification of the country, seems to be emerging from recent negotiations.

A lengthy memorandum covering measures for the solution of various important problems, which the South-West authorities have addressed to Chiang Kai-shek, was brought here to-day by Mr. Cheng Kai, the emissary of General Chan Chai-tong, Marshal Li Tsung-yen and General Pei Tsung-hai.

Mr. Cheng Kai is on his way to Nanchang.

The memorandum, which contains about five thousand words, recommends detailed measures for a joint anti-Communist drive by the forces of the two Kwangs and the Central Government, under the command of the Generalissimo in Kiangsi.

Further proposals deal with schemes for the rehabilitation of the Communist-ridden provinces following the conclusion of the drive, and deals with other important issues vital to cooperation between the Central Government and the South-West.—Reuter.

Two further cases of dog-bites have been reported to the police. A chair cooler named Cheung Nam-hong has been sent to the Government Civil Hospital after having been bitten whilst carrying a chair in Robinson Road, while in the other case a man named Au Lou has also been sent to hospital following a bite which he received from a dog belonging to a man named Tai Choy. The dog has been sent to Kennedy Town depot.

QUOTAS FORCED ON CEYLON

COLONIAL OFFICE INSTRUCTION

GOVERNOR TO USE POWERS

London, July 30. An anti-Japanese quota is to be imposed in Ceylon over the head of the Legislative Council, on orders to the Governor (Sir Edward Stubbs) from the Colonial Office.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, replying to a question by Major H. A. Proctor (Con. Accrington), today said that the Governor of Ceylon had reported that the Board of Ministers do not propose to introduce legislation for the regulation of imports of foreign cotton and artificial piece goods, which policy has been generally adopted by the Colonies which are free to take such action.

The Government feel it to be impossible that Ceylon should be excluded from a particular Imperial policy which is regarded as essential in the economic interests of the Empire as a whole. They have therefore decided to make use of their powers of legislation by Order-in-Council which have always existed and which were reserved in the Order-in-Council establishing the Ceylon Constitution.

Accordingly an Order-in-Council will be made investing the Governor of Ceylon with power to regulate textile imports by quota in the same way as such imports are being regulated in other parts of the Colonial Empire.—Reuter.

CANTON OBJECTS TO TOBACCO TAX

Aimed at Raising Funds For Air Defence

(Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, July 30.

As a protest against the imposition of a new tax on tobacco and cigarettes, under the name of Air Defence Tax, local tobacco and cigarette companies and sub-agents, as well as vendors, are agitating for a strike should the new levy come into force.

The new impost was recommended by the Canton Municipal Air Defence Association who plan to utilise the revenue from this extra levy for the strengthening of the air defences of this city.

The plan involves an additional tax of ten per cent on the selling price of all tobacco and cigarettes. Local merchants in this line of business consider such a tax heavy.

MERCHANTS MEET.

A meeting was held yesterday by the representatives of over one hundred and seventy tobacco and cigarette firms to decide what measures should be adopted in regard to this new impost. It was decided that petitions be sent to the Canton Municipal Treasury, the Provincial and Municipal Kuomintang Party organs and the various government organisations requesting the withdrawal of the proposal. The merchants are also soliciting the support of the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

SOPHIE KERR'S LATEST SUCCESS IN ROMANTIC PROBLEM FICTION "STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

JANE TERRY came to New York determined to show her home town and especially AMY JACKSON that she was a success of her life. Amy had been her best friend until HOWARD JACKSON broke the engagement. Jane forced on him and married Amy. Unable to bear the sight of Amy's happiness, Jane obtains a job in a New York real estate office.

CHAPTER XVI

Amy's voice was reproachful. "But a helpless child, Jane, who didn't ask to be born—"

"None of us asked to be born," Jane answered. "I wish to heaven I'd never been. I wish I were dead. I've wished it a thousand times—ever since—"

"But Jane, this man, hasn't he any decent feeling? He ought to be looking out for you. Doesn't he care? Don't you care anything about him?"

"No, I don't. I even loathe thinking about him."

Amy knew Jane was speaking the truth. "But you must have loved him," she persisted. "After all, you couldn't have lived with him without caring something about him, at first, anyway."

"I loved Howard," said Jane dully. "This man was exciting, and he flattered me and made love to me, and I met him half-way, if you want to know. Oh, you can look at me, Amy, and be horrified, but I don't see why women shouldn't have affairs like men, and think no more about it. There's no reason why not. Is there, honestly?"

"I don't know that there is, only I can't think so. It's one of the things that sound all right, but never work out."

"I can see that last pretty plain myself, now. But I did love Howard, Amy, and after I knew he didn't love me—can't you understand, this other man going so crazy about me made me feel better, made me like myself again when I'd been hating myself. I was awful to you about Howard, Amy. But you knew it was because it hit me so hard."

"Yes, I did know. Jane I'm so sorry."

"There's no use being sorry. We won't drag that stuff out again. You're going to stay with me, aren't you, Amy? If you only knew how glad I am to see you, and to have somebody I can talk to and be natural with. Stay a little while, Amy, even if it's only a few days. I'll die if you leave me."

"Yes," said Amy. "I'm going to stay. I'll send Mother a telegram. I'll have to get my bag. It's checked at the station. And I ought to cancel my Pullman."

"And have your ticket extended. I'll send the maid. She's smart—too smart sometimes. You don't want to go out in this heat again. Jane had become normal, practical. She sat down at her desk, wrote directions, addresses, then rang for the maid and started her off. Emma, Kitty's successor, was another West Indian, quiet and intelligent.

Amy took off her hat, washed her face and hands and tried to compass the utter strangeness of the situation. This was so difficult that she retreated to trivialities. She found herself telling Jane scraps of Marburg news, Vanny Hough's new car, Louise March's marriage to a man from Chicago, Henry Berwyn's accident in his boat, Edgar Moreland's engagement to a girl who had visited the Pattersons.

"That's funny," said Jane, who had been listening with scant interest. "I never thought Edgar would care about any girl but you. The boys all liked you, Amy. You were far and away the most popular girl in town."

"Whatever that may mean. Edgar wasn't serious about me. It was just that we'd known each other all our lives."

"I don't believe anybody really loves more than once," went on Jane. "Do you?"

"I don't know what I believe about love—except—except that it's the only miracle we ever know."

Nothing else explains it. She stopped, embarrassed by speaking out a secret thought. They mustn't talk like this. She looked about the apartment. "This is a very queer place, Jane," she continued. "I thought you told me last year that you had grass cloth on the walls."

"Oh, I took that off when I went Spanish. You don't like this?"

"I'm not sure. I never saw anything like it before."

"I know," said Jane, rallying. "You don't think any place can be lived in if there's no piano. I'll rent one for you while you're here."

"Oh, mercy, don't think of it. Goodness only knows what it would cost."

"I can afford it," said Jane cockily. "I've made heaps of money. I've invested the money my father left in Aunt Rosa's trust and more than doubled it."

For the first time since she had entered the house Amy laughed. "That sounds like the old Jane, indeed it does."

"Bragging, you mean," Jane laughed a little, too. "But Amy, it's true. I have made a lot of money and I'll make a lot more once I get out of this mess. You know I was always clever about money. I'll telephone for a piano. They can bring it in the morning and then you can play as much as you want. There's nothing else to do while we're waiting."

"It was not until late that night, after Amy had gone to bed on the Spanish couch and was lying there kept awake by the unaccustomed place and noise, that it occurred to her that Jane had never once asked her to keep her secret. This confidence touched Amy profoundly. "She knows I'd never tell," she thought. "But I'm awfully glad she didn't ask me not to. It makes everything better between us."

It was good to be with Jane again, the grudge wiped out. But Jane! To have done this mad, this awful thing! "She's brave," thought Amy. "She's got a force" relentless sort of courage that never gives in. I don't see why she hasn't gone raving mad. I don't believe it seems real to her, any more than it does to me."

She wondered about Thorpe, what sort of a man he might be, and she thought, with humility and thankfulness of her own marriage, and of Howard, and their happiness, their content together. She remembered what she had said to Jane—"I only wish this was my child!" A child was the only thing that could add to her and to Howard's life.

"I must persuade Jane not to send her away to be adopted," she thought. "That would be a lot more wicked than just having it." She drifted into sleep intent on Jane's duty to her child.

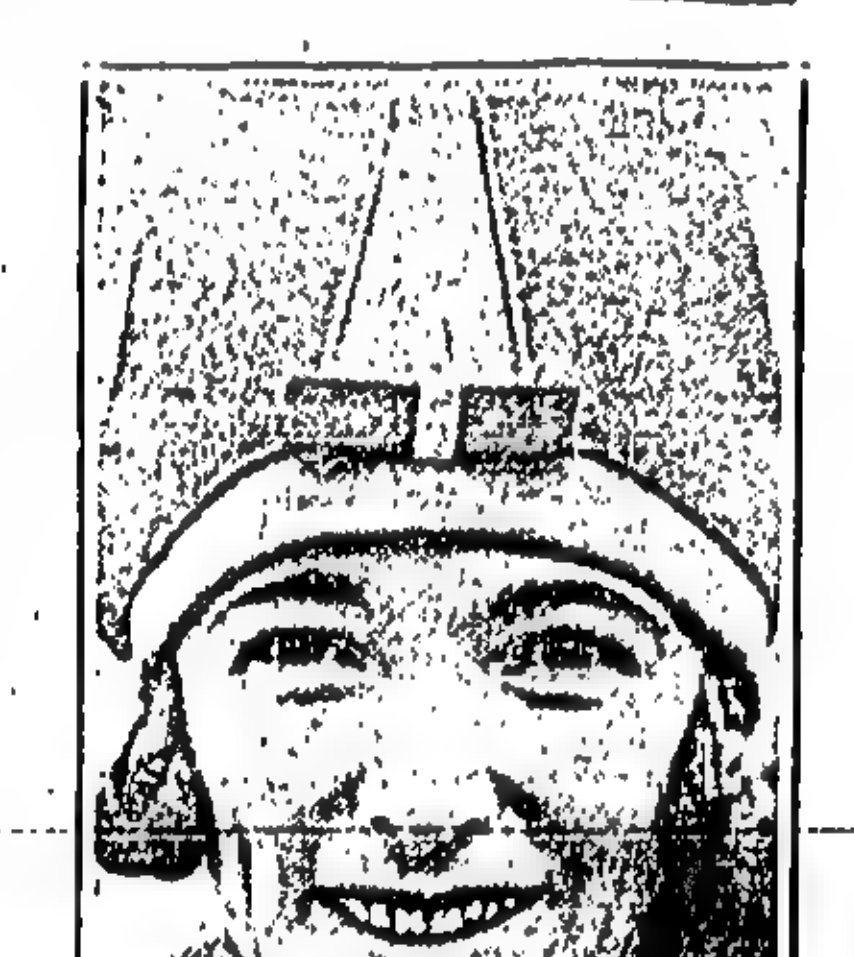

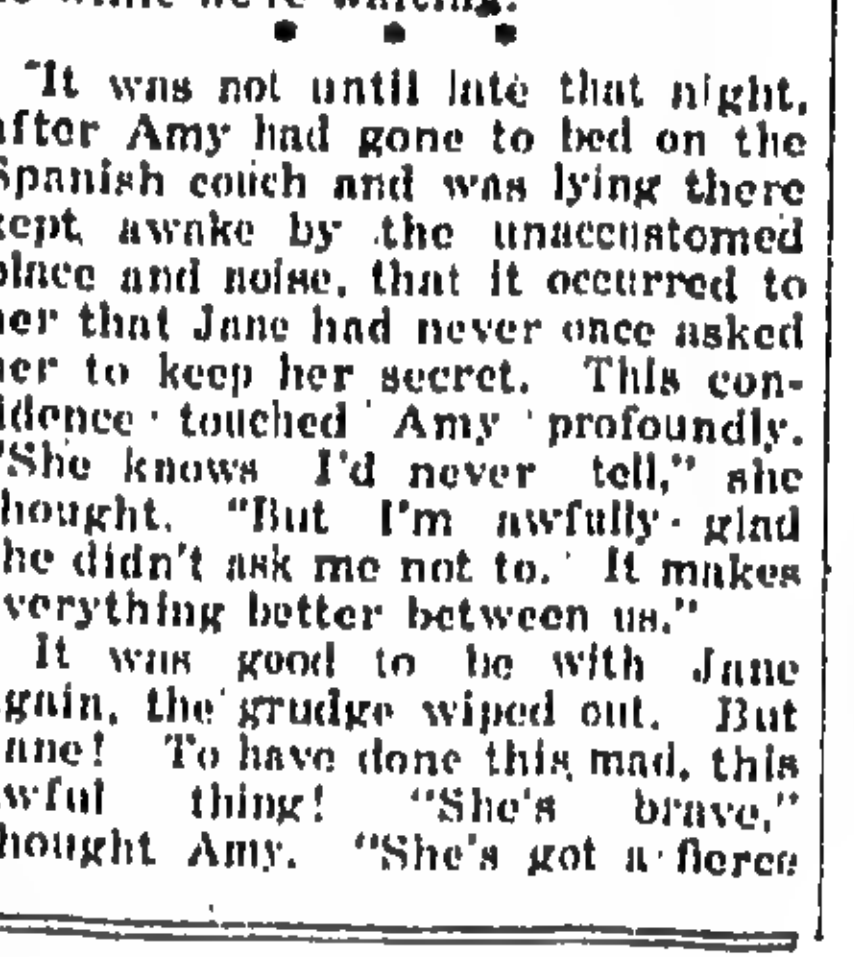

It was as easy as Jane had said, Amy soon found, to arrange to stay. Mrs. Lowe was willing to look after Amy's house and promptly sent on a supply of cloths, with a letter saying, "Stay as long as you like and have a good time. It will keep you from missing Howard so much. Indeed, I don't see why you shouldn't stay until he comes back."

lived quiet and withdrawn in the semi-twilight of the apartment, with nothing to do except try to keep cool. Because Amy insisted, Jane bought a few infants' clothes and also consulted a doctor. She knew of no one in particular, so they chose the nearest, a man with an office at the corner. He seemed sensible and capable, but very detached and professional, his interest for the case, not the human being. Jane's unmarried state did not seem to surprise him, but he did raise his voice in protest when she said she would not go to a hospital. Amy listened to the dispute between Doctor Lacey and Jane with mingled anxiety and amusement, for each was obstinacy to the hilt. In the end Jane won out and Doctor Lacey reluctantly said he would attend her in her home. "I'll send you a nurse when it's time for you to have one," he said firmly.

And just as firmly Jane replied: "You can send a nurse when I ask for one, and not before."

"You're running a serious risk," he warned her. "It's my risk," she said. (To Be Continued.)

The lower photograph gives a vivid idea of the extent of the collapse of the two-story Chinese shop beneath the ruins of which eight Chinese were buried in Shanghai last week. One Chinese woman was killed and the others suffered extensive injuries. Firemen experienced a difficult task extricating the victims from the piles of debris. GERMANY BRANDED AS BARBARIAN.BLAMED FOR DEATH OF DOLFUSS

Rome, July 30. A violent press campaign has whipped up Italian feeling against Germany, whose Government is charged as being directly responsible for the murder of the late Chancellor of Austria, Dr. E. Dollfuss, and with plotting to overthrow the Austrian republican Government.

Newspapers denounce Germany as a nation of barbarians.

They assert that only six weeks after Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler met at Venice to lay the foundations of a "minimum common agreement for Europe," the two great Fascist nations are glaring angrily at one another across the prostrate form of Austria.

Meanwhile, interest has been aroused here by reports that Prince Otto is watching from his castle in Belgium to see whether he will be called back to the Hapsburg throne.

Prince Otto's Hopes.

Otto is a strong Catholic and as a devout in his anti-Nazi feelings, and is strongly favoured as a possible ruler by the Vatican. Some months ago, perhaps, Signor Mussolini would have welcomed the restoration of Prince Otto, but since he has publicly claimed that South Tyrol should be given back to Austria, Signor Mussolini has declared that he will receive no help in his quest for a throne, so far as Italy is concerned, until he alters his tone.

South Tyrol was lost to Austria and gathered into the Italian frontiers following the signing of the treaties which concluded the Great War. There is still a strong patriotic element in Austria which is anxious for the restoration of the lost province.

It is believed, however, that the people of Jugoslavia prefer to see Austria thrown into the arms of the Nazis, while the Czechs-Slovaks are opposed to any return of Hapsburg domination at Vienna.

Despite the presence of the forces of three foreign nations on

NEW COMMITTEE.AUSTRALIAN AND N. ZEALAND ASSOCIATION TO BALLOT

Members of the Australian and New Zealand Association will be required to ballot for the election of five members for the incoming Committee at the annual General Meeting, which will be held in the Jacobean room of the Hongkong Hotel at 5.15 p.m. on Friday next.

Messrs. H. D. Matthews (President), R. J. Neill (Vice-President) and N. Stockton (Hon. Secretary), who have held office for the past twelve months, are unopposed for their respective positions.

Mr. J. M. Kelleher is not seeking re-election as Hon. Treasurer, and will be replaced by Mr. A. E. Hughes, whose nomination is also unopposed.

The following seven nominations have been received for the five other vacancies on the Committee: Messrs. J. Hunter, A. W. Ingram, J. M. Kelleher, R. J. McNeill, C. L. Tatham, J. R. Way, J. Wolfe.

the Austrian frontier, the situation on the Austrian side of the border remains calm. But without doubt dangerous elements still prevail.—Reuter.

NO INTERFERENCE.German Attitude Toward Austria.

Berlin, July 30.

While the German Government would welcome Parliamentary elections in Austria if it would mean a restoration of order and a burying of the hatchet of party strife, it is not the intention of the authorities to press the issue, declared a spokesman in close touch with the Chancellor, Herr Hitler, to-day.

This is interpreted as an authoritative exposition of the German attitude with reference to the future of Austria.

The spokesman emphasised that Germany had no intention of interfering in Austria's internal affairs.

He added that Germany desired only to live on brotherly terms beside the Austrian people and hoped the new Austrian Government would adopt a similar attitude with respect to Germany.—Reuter Special.

Commissions in Berlin.

Berlin, July 30.

Two Chinese investigating commissions have recently arrived here, one composed of members of the Kuomintang. They have been studying Fascism in Italy and are to study the evolution and constitution of Nazism here.

Later they will go to London to study the British democracy.

The other commission is composed of 18 members headed by General Shu Ching-lo. It is studying traffic control and will go to London shortly.—Our Own Correspondent.

QUOTAS OPPOSED.CEYLON PROTESTING AGAINST PENALTY

Ceylon, July 30.

A mass meeting of Ceylon labour bodies passed a resolution to-day protesting against "penalising Ceylon's workers for the benefit of the Lancashire textile trade by enforcing an anti-Japanese quota on the Colony."

Meanwhile, the State Council has enforced an additional duty of 200 per cent. on Japanese beers, which have been ousting British beers from the Ceylon market with startling rapidity.

The duty on British beers remains unaltered.

There has been talk in Ceylon, among the labour element, of demanding a complete embargo against all British goods in order to force reconsideration of the anti-Japanese quota plan.—Reuter.

THE CHURCH AND ITS MINISTERS

The Colony will be all the poorer by Dr. E. L. Allen's resignation from the pastorate of the Kowloon Union Church, which is to take effect from the end of the present year. During his stay here, Dr. Allen has revealed himself to be not only a deep thinker and a keen student of world affairs, but, above all, a man of deep religious convictions, the guiding principles of which he endeavours to apply to everyday life. It is precisely because he possesses the courage of these convictions that he has, after much pondering of the step, reached the conclusion that he should drop out of the professional ministry. So much is apparent from the terms in which he announced his decision on Sunday morning. It is no over-statement of the facts to say that Dr. Allen's case is that of many other ministers of the Gospel who feel that they cannot make their maximum contribution to life under the conditions required of them by institutional or organised religion. Some of them, whilst feeling thus, none the less refrain from making the break; the more courageous and the more honest-minded take the plunge and are prepared to put their principles to the test, come what may. Like many others, Dr. Allen feels the constant over-emphasis on finance which is encountered in the professional ministry, and here also he is at one with many other pastors who fear that the spiritual life of the church is being in large measure subordinated to financial considerations. Feeling as he does, Dr. Allen naturally finds his convictions closer to those of the Society of Friends, or Quakers, than to those of any other Christian sect. For the whole basis of the Quakers' religion is purely individualistic, depending upon one's own personal experience, and is in this respect widely separated from the spirit of institutionalism associated with organised religion. To some people, it may be difficult to appreciate to the full the considerations which induce men like Dr. Allen to break away from the ministry, but they are none the less real on that account. Nor can the sincerity of those who take the step be questioned; they would be poor specimens of

NOTES OF THE DAY

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Publication in the Singapore newspapers of a list of sixty books just added to the Raffles Library furnishes a reminder that Hongkong's public library badly needs the injection of some fresh literature. Government has done its first work since taking over the library exceedingly well. Many of the books have been re-bound and the new catalogue and lay-out are a real boon to the library-user. But book-shelves that remain static in content must soon become worn-out for lack of use. An end soon comes to each individual's list of volumes that appeal to his taste. No very great effort is needed. Even the old City Hall Committee managed to provide a small but steady supply of new books. A thousand dollars a year would make a world of difference. Later, when the new City Hall is built, the public may ask a little more—a free circulating library that people will want to use, instead of a library for people who want to use it.

TINKERING WITH LAW

Even more than the proposed amendments to the Coroners Ordinance, the reforms contemplated in the jury ordinance suffer from the serious defect that they leave numerous important problems untouched. It seems a futile thing merely to tinker with legislation of this kind, if there is no real intention of remedying basic faults. The Coroners Ordinance is less to be criticised on this score than that concerning juriesmen for it does, at least, furnish the machinery for supervision—and a strong Attorney General can prevent a repetition of incidents that have occasioned public censure in the past. The changes in the jury ordinance, on the other hand, consist principally of legalising minor illegalities which have grown into practice, and, desirable and necessary as this in itself may be, they supply no real advance.

WOMEN JURORS. WHY NOT?

If the legislation governing local jury service was worthy of official attention in order to bring it up to date, a little extra time spent in extending the principle of modernisation would not have been wasted. There is a heavy weight of argument that could be brought to support a suggestion for the empanelling of women jurors. And a still stronger case could be submitted for ending the system of acceptance of majority verdicts in criminal cases. The old system was perhaps necessary to save undue waste of time in days when the number of persons available for service was strictly limited. But to perpetuate the system nearly fifty years after the passing of the original ordinance—when the number on the live register is more than ten times greater—is definitely bad in principle, and a slur on the ways of justice in Hongkong.

OUR LAW-MAKERS

It is possible that good reason could be advanced by the Government's legal advisers for limiting reform to the point set down in the ordinance as amended, if the issues were ever debated. But is there any reason to expect discussion? Such a development in Council would set a precedent for the last ten years at least. It would almost rock the Colony government that needs no adornment is contained in the simple statement of fact that never once in open Council in recent years, as far as memory serves, has an Ordinance submitted to the Legislative Council been challenged in any single particular by an unofficial member. Perhaps, however, it is wrong to raise the voice of criticism; perhaps the correct thing to do is to compliment the Colony upon a succession of infallible incumbents of the office of Attorney General.

humanity if they continued in a given sphere against the dictates of their own convictions. Dr. Allen's case is, as we say, not an isolated one; we recall another such here in Hongkong, in which an ordained minister of the Anglican Church felt impelled to follow a like course for similar reasons. In the last resort, the matter is one for the individual himself. But it is not without its significance, at a time when organised religion in some of its forms seems to have lost much of its hold on mankind in general, that there should be these recurring instances of ministers of the church coming to realise the relative futility of their work under the conditions in which they are required to labour.

PATRIOTISM OR SPORT?

By ROBERT LYND

AS I sat at Lord's and watched the Australian batsmen delivering themselves one after another into Verity's hands to the accompaniment of sounds indicative of unholy joy on the part of the spectators, I could not help wondering how many of those present could sincerely repeat the traditional sportsman's prayer, "May the better side win!"

I do not know enough to be sure whether the Australians or the English are the better side this year; but I cannot help thinking that, when the heart has once been set to beat with excitement, the normal man longs above all for victory for his own side, if it can be achieved fairly, against any side in the world, however magnificent.

If it were not so, we should not find even the most magnanimous human beings cheering with glee because the weather, after making things easy for their own batsmen, changes in such a way as to make things extremely difficult for the opposing batsmen.

On the contrary, we should have found those magnanimous human beings looking up dolefully at the sky during the week-end of the Test match, and bemoaning the fact that owing to the rain the Australians would not have the same fine batting wicket to play on as the English had had.

The truth is, however, few of us are so magnanimous as all that. We do not pray for the weather to be impartial. We like to take a hand in the game on our side to become, as it were, a twelfth player of genius in the team—and we welcome any accident of sun, cloud or rain that may turn out to the advantage of our own men and to the disadvantage of the others.

This seems to me to be right. I suspect most of the people who say "May the better side win!" of not quite meaning what they say. The only man who can honestly say "May the better side win!" on the eve of a great match is either a man who believes that his own side is so good that it is certain of victory or a man who knows that his own side is so bad that he is resigned in advance to defeat.

Thus, if the Australians were playing an English schoolboy eleven, everybody on both sides could say "May the better side win!" with a clear conscience. But not when Australia is playing England. Here the issue is still uncertain, and, till it is settled, every Englishman will be an eager partisan, longing for victory.

I do not know who was the originator of the pious phrase expressing the hope that the better side would win. It has been attributed to Mr. Dooley; but I suspect it was the invention of a Victorian school-master anxious to restrain the too ardent passions of his pupils on the eve of the game of the year.

To many people, I know, it seems to formulate the creed of a true sportsman. I looked up the definition of "sportsman" in the Oxford Dictionary, however, and I could find nothing in it to suggest that the sportsman harbours any such inhuman sentiments. A sportsman, says the dictionary, is "a man who follows, engages in, or practises sport; esp. one who hunts or shoots wild animals or game for pleasure."

I have never hunted or shot wild animals or game for pleasure; but if I did go out for a day's shooting, I doubt whether I should be able to do so in a mood of austere morality which told me that it did not matter whether the partridges or I got the better of it. I should always want to beat the partridges.

It has always been the same with any game in which I was interested. I should have liked the Rugby fifteen at my school to win the Schools' Cup every year I was there, whether it was the best team or not. I might admit at the end of the game that the winning try was "fluky," and, rosy with a sense of victory, might exude sympathy for the defeated side; but, while the game was on, I was as ready to shout myself hoarse over gifts of luck as over the feats of superior genius.

There is a kind of "my-country-right-or-wrong" spirit among the young partisans of the football-stand that may be very reprehensible but without which the football-grounds would be half-empty of their spectators.

Who is there who, however much he admires the masterly play of the other side, does not rejoice when one of the other side makes a mistake that lets his own side in? I had been a Cambridge man at the Oxford and Cambridge match at Twickenham last December. I should certainly have been ecstatically happy if the sure-footed, sure-handed Owen Smith had fumbled the ball just once and so left the way open for a Cambridge victory. I should have been generous afterwards and, perhaps, even expressed my regret that so great a player had marred a glorious day's play by an error; but not till the game was over.

In the same way, every English spectator at the Lord's Test match was delighted when the never-failing Oldfield dropped a catch and so allowed Ames to score his century. Everybody was sorry for Oldfield and glad that the thing had happened. At the present stage in the evolution of human nature, that, I think, is as far as sportsmanship can go.

"May the better side win!" is a fine sentiment. It gives us an ideal to live up to. But, meanwhile, if a player on the other side slips on the wet grass and so misses an easy catch, we shall accept this as one of Fortune's gifts with not ungrateful hearts. Any little help that comes from winning the toss or from the weather or from any other piece of luck will be duly welcomed.

We know that it does not really matter who wins a game, but we are not absolutely sure of this till the game is over.

Till then, most of us can say from our hearts, "May the best side win!" only if under our breath we add the whisper, "And, if there is any luck going, may it come to our side!"

Anyhow the country needed rain.

The Very Idea!

CORNS AND THINGS
By George

DEAR Agatha,
We received your kind letter this morning and are glad to tell you that we are better than you expected. We really have no spare razor blades at the moment but would suggest that you try starving your corn or trying a horse hair round it.

In anticipation of your further enquiry we have to say that we have no spare horses either but would suggest that you take lessons in riding or crib a hair from the boy friend. (We have no spare boy friends either.)

We are sorry that neither the shingle nor the bingle, the cringle or the crumpled style of hair seems to suit you, but we are not exhausted yet. Have you tried parting your hair in the middle and extending the parting to both ears? Your next crop may be a curly one.

We are inclined to agree with you about the pants. It's too bad, your brother was annoyed at you cutting his flannels down but I expect you would feel the same if he started cutting your flannels up. We agree pants are much better this hot weather. "As pants the hart for cooling streams" and so on.

Yours cornfully,

THE OSTRICH.

EXTRACTS FROM ADA'S EXERCISE BOOK

The Ostrich is a bird with a long neck and a kick like a mule.

The ostrich is a pretty dumb bird as it thinks when it hides its head in the sand that nobody can see it or if they can they will think it is a banyan tree.

The ostrich spends most of its time dropping eggs in the sand and looking for them again.

Although it comes from Australia, the ostrich is not a great cricketer. It has good delivery and can put its head under the mat but it can't stand a big belt with the ball in the belly.

The ostrich has a very musical voice and has been called the Nightingale of the Bush. When startled it will imitate a mudguard pushing a coolie against a wall and when calling to its mate it makes a noise like a fire extinguisher with a sore throat.

A good ostrich egg is a very impressive sight, being about the size of twenty ordinary eggs. The only egg more impressive than a good ostrich egg is a bad ostrich egg which smells twenty times as bad as the ordinary egg.

CHIEF AND US.

Chief: Uncle, please what is a Nasty?

Us: A nasty what?

Chief: A Nasty Australian.

Us: Hush, my child, you mustn't say things like that.

Chief: Well, what is it?

Us: A Nasty is a man with a brown shirt who does Swedish exercises in the street for his country's sake.

Chief: Are their Swedish Nazis?

Us: How should we know?

Chief: Why do they do Swedish exercises?

Us: For the same reason that an English-speaking German Jew settles in China, buys American dollars, curses in Hindustani and plays Russian Pool.

Chief: Why does he do that?

Us: Why does who do what?

Chief: Why does a Hindustani Jew settle in Africa, swear in China, buy African dollars and play the fool?

Us: Go away.

Chief: Why?

Us: Because you give us a pain in the neck.

Chief: Why?

Us: Never mind, why. Just do as you're told or you'll get no candy. Run along now, you little brat. Shoo!

INTERNATIONAL CURRENCY WAR AGAIN THREATENED

GOVERNOR'S A.D.C. AS WITNESS

TO BE CALLED IN TRAFFIC CASE

Capt. R. F. Walter, A.D.C. to His Excellency the Governor, is appearing as a witness in a traffic summons adjourned by Mr. Hamilton to-day for hearing on the 9th instant.

The summons is against Chiu Hok-fung, a car driver, for allegedly disobeying the pointsman's directions at the junction of Arbuthnot Road and Chalmers Road.

Interpretation of the signal will be a point in the case, states Mr. F. H. Loseby, who is appearing for the defendant. The case for the defendant is that he had stopped on seeing the red light, was then given the green light at the moment when Capt. Walter's car entered the junction, collided with his, and apparently just grazed his bonnet.

A lorry driver, Li Ping-fat was fined $25 this morning for reckless driving in Stubbs Road on July 19.

Mr. G. Miskin, of Messrs. Gilman & Co., said the driver overtook two other lorries and all but collided with his car at a blind corner just below Magazine Gap.

Li Ping, driver of private car No. 3700, belonging to the Nanyang Brothers Tobacco Company, and licensed in the name of Chan Lim-pak, was fined $10, by Mr. Hamilton in the Central Magistracy this morning on a summons for driving the vehicle in a road closed to motor traffic.

Ko Yick-ching, the driver of private car No. 2133 was fined $25 for driving on the wrong side of the road in Whitfield and passing a stationary tramcar.

THE PRICE OF HARMONY

SUBSIDIES GRANTED TO SOUTH

(Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, July 30. According to well-informed circles here, the successful mission of General Huang Shao-hsing, the Minister of Interior in Nanking, who recently came here as the personal envoy of General Chiang Kai-shek, in restoring harmony between Nanking and the South-West was the result of a lump sum being distributed to the Kwangtung and Kwangsi leaders.

It is stated that General Huang brought down with him ten million dollars and that half of this sum was given as subsidies to the Kwangtung military authorities for the Red bandit-suppression campaign in Kwangsi, and another three million dollars handed over to Kwangsi as military funds.

The balance of two million dollars, it is stated, was offered to the Elder Statesmen as travelling expenses in a publicity campaign to be carried out abroad, but the intended recipients raised objections, holding that the assemblage of delegates for the forthcoming Fifth Plenary Session was much more important than any scheme for national publicity in foreign countries.

UNMUZZLED DOGS

ALLEGED THREAT TO SHOOT CONSTABLE

An allegation that defendant threatened to shoot a Shantung constable was made by Sergeant Pilkington, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, when A. S. Xavier was summoned before Mr. Lee for allowing his dog out in the street without a muzzle on July 3.

Sergeant Pilkington said defendant made a lot of trouble and refused to give his name when a Shantung constable asked him for it. He also threatened to shoot the constable if the latter got near his dog again.

Defendant denied these allegations, but admitted the offence named in the summons.

His Worship:—The only charge before me now is that defendant allowed his dog out without a muzzle. I can only deal with that. The fine is $25.

C. Highbottom, of No. 27 Nathan Road, was fined $25 for allowing his dog out in Nathan Road without a muzzle on July 8.

MAXIMUM GAOL SENTENCE

EIGHTH CONVICTION FOR THEFT

Chan Luk-chai, aged 17, a fohki, had his eighth conviction for stealing recorded against him when he appeared before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning, charged with theft of a purse, containing $10.00, from Tong Chung-tak, a visitor from Swatow. The defendant, who is Hongkong-born and under police supervision, was sentenced to the maximum term of one year's hard labour.

At first accused pleaded not guilty. His case was put back while others were tried and when the case was called again, Chan altered his plea to one of guilty.

Detective-Sergeant J. Shepherd stated that shortly after 7 p.m. yesterday, the complainant and his friend were in the Sincere Company's store. They took the lift and on reaching the fourth floor they got out and decided to buy tickets for the roof garden. Complainant then discovered that his purse was missing. They saw the defendant standing nearby holding the purse wrapped in paper. The end of the purse was showing. They caught hold of him and sent for the police.

GOLD BLOC CRASH EXPECTED

STRONG PRESSURE ON STERLING

U.S. READY FOR INFLATION

Exchange restrictions in Europe are impending in an attempt to stop the flight of capital to the United States, according to the Washington correspondent of S. E. Levy and Company.

Strong belief is entertained that a break will occur in the gold bloc. Fears are even expressed about sterling. It is stated that despite the activities of the Exchange Equalisation Fund manipulators, it is becoming increasingly difficult to hold sterling at above Five Dollars.

A currency war once again looms ominously on the horizon. Messrs. Levy's Washington correspondent says that the United States will not hesitate to depreciate the dollar further or to print paper currency to the value of $1,000,000,000 if sterling should break badly as is feared in some quarters.

SILVER CERTIFICATES?

Washington, July 30. The Washington Administration is believed to take the view that the existing political troubles abroad might possibly actuate economic pressure, expected to drive the gold countries into monetary experiments. A sudden break in the gold bloc is looked for. In the event that the pound sterling breaks, the Administration will probably further reduce the gold content or print about a billion dollars in money, possibly in the form of silver certificates, in the expectation that this will start inflationary buying.

There is at present a critical sentiment towards the Administration because of the indefinite business outlook, with the N.H.A. codes apparently checking moves towards recovery. It is generally felt here that the drought is not a serious factor for autumn business.—Swan, Culbertson and Fritz.

New York, July 30. Gross revenues of the first 63 railroads, reporting for June, show an increase of $2,901,000 over the June last year figure of $246,938,000, but the net operating income is $14,898,000 shy of the total of $52,545,000 for June last year.

Steel operations for last week remain unchanged from the previous week, but increased demand is expected during the month of August. Steel mill activity is reported as being 26.1 per cent. of capacity.

The average steel ingot production in the Pittsburgh district for the past three weeks was about 23.0%. Owing to opposing influences no general uptrend in steel ingot production is expected for the forthcoming fortnight.—Swan, Culbertson and Fritz.

A REFRESHED PERRY WILL TAKE THE COURT TO-DAY

WISE MOVE BY CAPTAIN

LEE BROUGHT IN FOR DOUBLES

STRUGGLE FOR DAVIS CUP

BRITAIN CAN BE OPTIMISTIC

(By "Veritas").

A last-minute decision by Mr. H. Roper-Barrett, non-playing captain, to alter the composition of the English doubles team, although of necessity making the match a certainty for the Americans in the Davis Cup challenge round match at Wimbledon yesterday, allowed Fred Perry to rest and to enter the arena against Shields to-day a wholly refreshed player.

The move, which will be acclaimed by all English partisans, tremendously increases England's chances of retaining the Cup, for Perry should have little difficulty in overcoming Shields.

Mr. Roper-Barrett was obviously inspired to make his alteration by the results of Saturday's encounters. It is very unlikely that his judgment will be proved lacking.

RIGHT UNDER RULE.

Although he had previously announced Perry and Hughes as England's doubles pair, Mr. Roper-Barrett had the right under the Davis Cup rules to effect alterations in this composition.

Rule 25 (c) states:—No variation may be made in the composition of the singles team, except as laid down in paragraphs (d) and (e) hereof; but a Captain may vary the composition of the doubles team, provided that notice of such variation is given to the opposing Captain at least one hour before the time fixed for the commencement of play in the doubles encounter.

With the necessity of offering Perry every advantage in his vital second singles, Mr. Roper-Barrett had no hesitation in making use of these provisions. It is now fairly obvious that he had this in mind when he first chose Hughes and Perry.

They were to be used only if England were in a tight position, and really in need of the doubles tie.

Perry and Hughes helped their captain out of what might have been a nasty dilemma, by clinching their first singles matches on Saturday. It simplified the whole thing.

To-day Perry will be given the opportunity of again experiencing (Continued on Page 10.)

PROFESSIONAL MALAY FOOTBALLERS

UNWITTING CONTRAVENTERS OF RULE COMMENDED BY NEWSPAPER

The case of 17 Malay footballers in Singapore being judged professionals as a result of a tour they made of Java, and the subsequent criticism of the Singapore Amateur Football Association for sentences imposed, has called forth the following leader in the Straits Times.

Because we feel that attempts have been made by one or two disgruntled individuals to confuse the real issue in regard to the declaration by the Singapore Amateur Football Association that certain Malay footballers in Singapore must be regarded as professionals, following their conduct in connection with a tour to Java last August, we make this attempt to clarify the position. The matter has come into prominence again in consequence of a request from 15 of the affected players for early consideration of an application for reinstatement as amateurs. It should be stated at once that these players accepted their punishment like the excellent little sportsmen that we know them to be. They claimed that they had acted in ignorance, but recognised that they had committed a breach of the laws relating to amateurism and must bear the consequences of their error. Attempts to make them view their position in a false light and to breed antagonism between themselves and the governing body were made in several letters addressed anonymously to this newspaper. These letters were not published. How little bitterness is felt by the majority of the men who came under the ban may be gathered from the fact, confirmed by the Malay Football Association, that subsequent to forwarding the application to the Singapore Amateur Football Association for early reconsideration of their position, the 15 signatories addressed a further letter to the Malay Football Association stating that, whereas at the time that they accepted certain small sums of money for expenses before the Java tour they did not know that they were acting contrary to the rules, in view of the fact that the Singapore Amateur Football Association had decided against them on a strict interpretation of the rules, they preferred not to retain the amounts which were the subject of the charges and asked to be allowed to refund the money. The treasurer of the Malay Football Association has already received from these 15 players the full amount with regard to the receipt of which they were declared professionals. No further evidence is required to establish the fact that the majority of cases the whole affair was a simple story of necessary strict rules and circumstances, and that those who suffered thereby entertained no vindictive feelings but recognised the justice of the action taken by the governing body.

There has been some confusion as the result of a mistaken impression that these players were suspended for given periods. That is not the case. They were simply declared to be professionals, which means disqualification. (Continued on Page 6.)

A. W. Carr's Serious Heart Attack

LIFE SAVED BY CHEMIST

Mr. A. W. Carr, the Nottinghamshire cricket captain, owes his life to a chemist.

He was motoring from Birmingham to Malvern after playing at Warwick, when he was taken ill and pulled up outside a chemist's shop on the Malvern road.

He grasped at the telephone number of his sister-in-law at Malvern. "I am very ill," he said to the chemist. Then he collapsed with a heart attack.

The chemist gave him a restorative and summoned a doctor. This prompt restorative, said the doctor when he arrived, saved Mr. Carr's life.

He was taken to Malvern, and his condition improved. It is unlikely, however, that he will again play this season.

The Nottinghamshire Club will now have to face the problem of finding a new captain. Mr. Carr, it is stated, has more than once almost resigned on account of the Larwood controversy.

TEST CRICKET

THE LAST ROUND

England And Australia Start All Square

HOMESIDE SELECTORS CRITICISED

(By R. Abbit)

Now that four of the Test Matches are over, we are in a position to review the general situation. Actually of course we stand level, but it is only through the grace of good fortune for the most part. Let us recapitulate.

We were beaten in the first Test, though we ought not to have been, had our batting been really sound. It is true that the pitch was helping the Australian bowlers but for all that there is a definite impression at home that our batting should have lasted out in the fourth innings.

It would have meant a draw in the favour of the Australians but that would have been a perfectly honourable end, and far better than a loss.

At Lord's, our batsmen showed that on a plumb wicket they had the measure of the Australian bowlers, while on a rain damaged pitch, Verity showed he was the master of the Australian batsmen.

Then came Manchester and then it was that one of the worst bits of work was done. Our batsmen reiterated the story of Lord's. On a plumb wicket they are completely adequate. But the wicket did not crumble or wear, and our bowlers could not force home the advantage.

Although attacked by this mysterious throat trouble the Australians fought back gallantly but they should never have saved the follow on, if we had had a really good bowling side, in spite of the fact that three catches were dropped. All honour to them that they did.

It was an honourable draw, though in our favour. Had the match been played to a finish we should probably have won.

So far things were pretty equal. But at Leeds the crash came. For the first time since the fourth innings at Trent Bridge we had to bat on a wicket that was not true and easy. I know it was reported generally to be a good wicket and that Wyatt, after winning the toss, elected to bat. But from the events of the first day I cannot believe the wicket was an easy one.

One report said there had been drizzle early in the morning. Any way our batsmen did not do very well, though I suspect the last four wickets were told to have a bang and get out in time to let the Australians have a go—but neither did the Australians. Nothing was not "wonky."

On the second day it rolled out easy, and Ponsford and Bradman beat us. They made practically all the runs, though here again I suspect the later men were told to get runs or get out.

Of course, the Australians were in a very strong position, but so far as I know, there is no suggestion that the wicket had cut on Monday afternoon. And it is not as if our men had had a day and a half in the field, as Sunday intervened. The fact remains that our batting failed and we were only saved from ignominious defeat by the rain, and I regret to see that there seems to have been some little unpleasantness over the matter.

THE SELECTORS. I confess that I am beginning to lose my confidence in the Selection Committee. After all, Perrin, aged fifty-eight, and Jackson, (aged sixty-four), played all their cricket a generation ago. Higson played for Rossall, Cheshire, Derbyshire, and Lancashire, and he is sixty-one years of age. As Daoud remarked in Dunsany's "If", "They are no old, master, they are so old." An average age of sixty-one seems a trifle excessive, though of course I know they have conferences with other cricketers. One would have liked to have seen at least one young man among the three.

Of course it is very easy to criticize but I think they have failed to handle the question of fast bowlers successfully. It is well known that the Australians do not like fast bowling particularly.

Given a rain damaged pitch of course Verity—or probably two or three more slow merchants—could deal with them. But the probable position is that most Test Cricket will be played on a good fast wicket. It seems therefore difficult to understand why in the Fourth Match they sent England into the field with only one fast bowler.

In fact, unless they selected the side on the assumption that because a bowler got no wickets the last time he was tried, he must get a lot the next time, it is difficult to see why Verity and Bowes, with the ever-useful Hammond to help, only had Mitchell and Hopwood to complete the attack. Mitchell has played in Three Tests now. In Australia in the fourth Test his figures were: 16 — 5 — 49 — 2. 5 — 0 — 11 — 1.

In the Trent Bridge ground this year his figures were: 21 — 4 — 62 — 1. 13 — 2 — 46 — 0.

In the last Test Match he was even worse: 23 — 1 — 117 — 0. Hopwood did not get any wickets in the Third Test—and in the fourth his figures were 30 — 7 — 93 — 0. He scored two, eight, and two not out. I am aware that both these players did very well for their counties after their failure in the Third Test but the experiment of giving them another chance has been a failure.

THE SOLUTION. To my mind there is one very obvious solution and that is to fill their places with G. O. Allen and Nicholls.

Both are more dangerous bats, though perhaps neither quite so good as Hopwood if he comes off, and while Allen is really fast, Nicholls is at least fast medium and a left hander into the bargain. I have been reserve three times. I hope he will get a place in the final match.

Some question may be raised as to G. O. Allen's fitness. That he was short of practice for the Third Test and also perhaps not absolutely fit is pretty certain. He made sixty odd, but it did not do his bowling any good. Since then he had played a good deal, and was fit enough to do very well for the Gentlemen when they so unexpectedly beat the Players at Lord's.

In the event of the wicket proving soft, I imagine that James Langridge would be a better choice than Nicholls. With him in the side Bowes, who must play of course, would be the only batsman who is incapable of making fifty.

Am assuming, of course, that Sutcliffe will displace Keeton. The latter was not too impressive in his first game.

The side then which I would like to see represent England in the Fifth Match is—in batting order—Sutcliffe, Walters, Hammond, Hendren, Wyatt, Leyland, Ames, Nicholls, Allen, Verity and Bowes.

If James Langridge plays he might well go in after Ames, whether he displaced Nicholls or (as might happen) Allen.

LARWOOD. However much one hoped that the log-terry controversy was over, the further interview with Larwood, published in the Sunday Dispatch—I think—has rather forced the position. The Nottingham bowler has come down to brass tacks, and has made some very definite statements and I do not see how the "Powers that Be" can leave the situation where it is.

When I read what Larwood has to say, the impression left on my mind was that he is right in saying that the M.C.C. first of all supported Jardine very definitely and have since withdrawn more and more into a snail's shell of vague pronouncement. It is clear that Jardine himself thinks he has been let down.

Personally I think that Larwood has been most ill-advised to take up the position he has. A. W. Carr, in his statement, admits, he is behind it. Incidentally I thought his reference to some of the younger county captains to be in the worst possible taste. Of course, Carr has not loved the M.C.C. ever since they dropped him from the captaincy of England after the Fourth Test Match in 1926, and one cannot but think that he is getting a bit of his own back.

As I have said—I had hoped that the whole business was over. But as it has flared up so much, and as so detailed a statement has been made by Larwood and his friends, cannot but feel that, if the M.C.C. ignore the whole thing and say nothing, there will always remain rather a nasty taste in people's mouths, to put it at the lowest point.

As it is England's best captain and best fast bowler are lost to Test Cricket.

Harold Larwood.

AUSTRALIANS HELD

SCOTLAND FORCE A DRAW

BRIGHT CRICKET

London, July 30.

Although scoring rapidly and making a prompt declaration, the Australians were unable to force a win against Scotland to-day, the match, in which there was no play on Saturday, being left drawn with the home team 98 runs in arrears with two wickets intact.

On Friday Scotland were dismissed for 107, and the Australians finished the day 144 for three.

McCabe, who was 67 not out, continued his innings with Barnett, but the former soon left after bringing his score to 73.

REFRESHING BATTING. Barnett remained to score with refreshing freedom and vigour, and when he lost his wicket, after scoring 92, the Australians were 331 for 5, at which score they declared.

Kippax proved a valuable partner to Barnett, and was undefeated with 90 to his credit.

Left to score 224 to avoid the innings defeat, Scotland fared very moderately, and only resolute and painstaking batting allowed them to hold out to the close of play, which found them with 116 runs on the board for the loss of eight wickets.—Renter.

Tennis Championship Struggle

INTENSIFIES IN "C" DIVISION

The race for the "C" Division of the tennis league is becoming intensified. Yesterday the South China Athletic Association maintained 100 per cent. record by winning their ninth match of the season.

The beat Kowloon Dockers by nine sets to love, and have now the impressive figures of

P	W	D	L	F	A	P	S
9	9	0	0	70	7	18

This leaves them four points behind Craigengower, the leaders, of whom they have two matches in hand, and two points in arrears of the C.R.C., over whom they have one game in hand.

Yesterday's scores were: F. N. Wong and C. P. Ip (S.C.A.A.) beat Millard and Duncan 6-0; beat Tillery and Pearson 6-2; beat White and White 6-0.

H.K. Ho and K.F. Lui (S.C.A.A.) beat Millard and Duncan 6-1; beat Tillery and Pearson 6-2; beat White and White 6-1.

P. K. Kwok and C. N. Tsang (S.C.A.A.) beat Millard and Duncan 6-1; beat Tillery and Pearson 6-3; beat White and White 6-0.

UNIVERSITY WIN. The University entertained the I.R.C. in their postponed "C" Division match yesterday, and won by seven sets to two.

One of the Indian Recreation Club players failed to put in an appearance, and the victors consequently defaulted three sets.

MIXED DOUBLES. In their return fixture in the Mixed Doubles of the Hongkong Tennis League, the Kowloon Cricket Club repeated their success against the Ladies Recreation Club, winning by the comfortable margin of seven sets to two, at King's Park yesterday afternoon.

Scores were as follows: A. E. P. Guest and Miss M. Griffiths (K.C.C.) beat Dunham and LARWOOD TO PLAY IN THE LAST TEST?

LATEST REPORT

The Daily Express rumours that Larwood, the Nottinghamshire fast bowler, may make peace with the M.C.C. and bowl for England in the final Test.

The Cricketer, commenting on the Larwood controversy, says: "Larwood was invited by the Selection Committee to play in the first Test Match. He declined on the ground that he was not fit. While the first Test Match was in progress at Nottingham, he publicly stated that he would be very glad to play for England in the second Test match, if asked, but a few days later, on Sunday, June 17, an article by him appeared in the Sunday Dispatch in which he stated that nothing would induce him to play for Australia. Further, he attacked the M.C.C., saying that he had not had a fair deal, or words to that effect, and suggested disloyalty to him on the part of the M.C.C."

"Mr. A. W. Carr, his county captain, and Vice backed him up in no unmeasured language. In spite of this, the selectors asked Larwood if the article in question expressed his real views, and on his replying that it did, they quite rightly and naturally refused to consider him for the second or third Test matches."

"To say that M.C.C. were 'disloyal' to Larwood is a gross mis-statement. In fact, M.C.C. were loyal to a degree both to him and to his captain in Australia, Mr. Jardine. They refused to admit that Larwood bowed at the batmen in Australia, and they invited Mr. Jardine to captain their side in India last winter."

"Where, then, was the disloyalty? "MOONSHINE."

As for the "political" influence, Lord Hailsham, President of M.C.C. from May, 1933, to May, 1934, has categorically denied them, and described them as "imagination" and "moonshine."

"All that is required of Larwood, or of any other bowler, is to bowl according to the traditions and spirit of the game, to carry out loyally the wishes of his captain, and to act in accordance with the views expressed by the county captains. He refuses, however, when fit, to play for England, no 'condition', except those which apply to every bowler, being asked of him."

"Larwood is a great bowler, but seems to have been very badly advised, and how comes it that on June 10 or 11, or thereabouts, he was only too ready and anxious to play for England, and yet on June 17 he refused to do so? What happened between June 10 and the last date?"

"Who put it into his head that M.C.C. had been disloyal to him, and that there was a clique trying to hound him out of Test cricket?"

"Everyone, including the Selectors, was only too anxious that he should play. One of these days all that happened during the early days of June, and before, may come out, and the story, we fancy, may surprise a good many people."

"Body line is a form of bowling which all who know what it means in practice condemn."

AN INQUIRY NECESSARY. "Ask the Lancashire XI why are Lancashire not renewing their fixtures next year with Nottinghamshire? A great county like Lancashire does not drop fixtures with an equally great county like Nottinghamshire—they have been playing each other for some 70 years—without good cause."

"But now we have Mr. Carr, the Nottinghamshire captain, backing up Larwood and Vice in the public Press, and writing as if there was no difference at all between leg theory and body line, when he himself subscribed, on two occasions, to banning body line."

"Cricket is so grand a game that it will doubtless survive these recent shocks, but the game would recover more quickly its old fame, prestige and harmony if discipline, strictures such as those passed by Mr. Carr, Larwood and Vice in regard to M.C.C. and the Selection Committee were asked for proof of their statements, and, generally, for an explanation."

"The immediate moment is not, perhaps, quite opportune for an inquiry, and it would be better, probably, to wait until the end of the season, but so soon as the summer is over the cricket world will immediately expect some such inquiry. The matter needs clearing up."

Especially do we desire to know what took place between June 8 and June 17.

Miss J. T. C. Smalley 6-1; beat Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Trall 6-4; drew with Gordon and Miss Thomas 6-6.

E. C. Pincher and Mrs. Wilson (K.C.C.) beat Dunham and Miss Smalley 6-0; drew with Dr. and Mrs. Trall 6-6; beat Gordon and Miss Thomas 7-5.

J. Roger and Miss A. Mackenzie (K.C.C.) beat Dunham and Miss Smalley 6-3; lost to Dr. and Mrs. Trall 8-0; beat Gordon and Miss Thomas 6-4.

LAWN BOWLS

Two Matches Decided In Open Singles

On the Police R.C. green yesterday, T. F. Stainton defeated A. O. Brown by 22 shots to 13 in the Open Singles Bowls Championship. Stainton was playing better bowls throughout and won comfortably.

A close match was on the Craigengower C.C. green, where J. K. Sloan beat T. Armstrong by 22 shots to 15. Play was even throughout, and it was not until the 17th head that Sloan could establish a handy lead. The game went to 24 heads. Owing to the heavy state of the Club de Relevo green, and in fairness to both pairs, the semi-final match of the Lawn Bowls Finals championship between W. K. Way and A. S. Gomez and Chapman and J. Fraser, which was to have been yesterday afternoon, was postponed.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET DULL

The following report on the New York stock market has been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz: The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: The market was downward and very dull, especially in the early morning, due to the drought greatly curtailing Mid-West buying power. The market rallied slowly at the close. In the commodity section, Grains went up, wheat due to the expected curtailment in the crops owing to the drought. Curb stocks were downward, while Bonds were irregular. United States Government issues gained, foreign bonds were mixed, while German issues were down.

S. C. & P. New York office cable: Stocks: The market recovered fairly well after early weakness. In special issues and should rally further if news remains favourable. Borg, Warner & Co., earnings for the first half of the year amounted to $1.59 per share, against $0.18 per share during the same period of last year. Crown Cork June quarter earnings were $1.39 per share, as against $1.25 per share last year. New passenger car registrations in 42 States during the month of June were 189,400, against 187,000 for May and 150,800 during June of last year. National Dairy for the first half of the year earned 58 Cents per share, as against 76 Cents per share for the same period of last year. Continental Oil for the first half of the year earned $2,377,000 or fifty Cents per share, as against $4,960,000 for the corresponding period last year. Westinghouse Electric Co.'s report for the first six months shows a net loss of $32,000, compared with $5,570,000 last year, while the net profit for the second quarter totals $1,774,000 as compared with a net loss of $1,776,000 for the first quarter and a net loss of $2,078,000 for the second quarter last year. Favourable factors: The removal of liquidating pressure and indication of a continuation of quiet investment buying at the present levels. The forecast of the Steel Institute expects some improvement in steel orders during August. Retail trade, generally, is reported to be well sustained. Unfavourable factors: Unless special inspiration or aggressive leadership is forthcoming, the market probably will return to the previous dull trading rut. Business done: $10,000.

New York & Chicago commodity reports received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson & Fritz: Grain: The early decline in Wheat was not by broad buying and quick advances followed the first of the private estimates which indicated 476,000,000 bushels of Wheat and 1,616,000,000 bushels of Corn. Losses continue in Corn and the whole outlook favours buyers on decline. During the week-end there were rains in the general Atlantic seaboard and in a greater part of Texas. A forecast of the weather indicates generally fair conditions.

Cotton: The market advanced on bullish private estimates. Spot export and Textile demand was poor but the basis is firm on the possibility of an extension of the 25 per cent. mill curtailment. The Cotton Exchange preliminary estimate of consumption amounts to 13,554,000 bales, with a carry-over of 10,836,000 bales. A forecast of the weather indicates partly cloudy and unsettled conditions, with continued warm weather in Oklahoma and East Texas; local showers in West Texas and partly cloudy with light rains reported in Galveston and Brownsville. Rubber: The market advanced largely on buying by American manufacturers. Singapore estates are still strengthening their holdings, while there are 11,000 tons less afloat this month than last month. The market is technically strong. Dow-Jones Averages: July 28, July 30.

REFRESHED PERRY WILL TAKE THE COURT TO-DAY

the thrill of securing the point which will allow his country to retain possession of the Davis Cup.

Perry is first on the court with Shields this afternoon, and the young American is facing a terrific task and heavy responsibility. In the way of morale Perry has every advantage: England already leads and he, personally, is now at the peak of his form. With such necessities to a range of winning strokes, Perry should be able to win.

And if he does, Austin will be just as keen on showing that his defeat of Shields was not just a thing of the moment.

Whatever the outcome, tennis enthusiasts exiled in Hongkong will unanimously regard spectators at Wimbledon to-day, as the luckiest people on earth.

THE DOUBLES MATCH.

George Lot and Lester Stofen won the doubles tie for America yesterday by three sets to one, the scores in their favour reading 7-6, 6-0, 4-6, 6-7.

H. G. N. Lee was brought in to partner G. P. Hughes, and was easily the better of the two Englishmen.

According to a Reuters message, the Americans, after a scratchy start, had little difficulty in winning, although the quality of tennis was not good.

Hughes continually netted simple shots, and Stofen was erratic.

Lee featured a sound display with some brilliant backhand strokes, but Lott, who was the outstanding player on the court in the early stages, cracked up in the third set.

The Americans won the vital fourth set thanks largely to Stofen, who recovered, and broke through the Englishmen with cannonball services.

tion from amateur football. The mention of a period of six months in 17 cases, one year in one case and two years in two cases indicated merely that applications for reinstatement as amateurs, which might have been submitted at any time but for the special reference, would not be considered for those periods. Once declared professional, a footballer remains a professional for ever, unless he shows good cause to the governing body for reinstatement. The Singapore Amateur Football Association, to whom the application for reconsideration has been addressed, cannot take decisive action that will vary an important ruling of its own. The matter must be referred to the Football Association of Malaya which meets at Kuala Lumpur on Aug. 4. The Singapore Football Association is competent only to seek the permission of the senior body to vary its decision of March 28. That such permission will be sought and granted is, virtually certain.

There is one other body concerned in this unfortunate occurrence and it deserves very high tribute for the correct and dignified attitude which it has adopted throughout. That is the Malay Football Association to which the penalised players belong. That body has been very hard hit but, having agreed by the act of affiliation to accept the council of the Singapore Amateur Football Association as the judicial authority in such matters, it has rightly refrained from offering any comment on the decisions and from making any official representation, either on behalf of itself as a body or on behalf of individual members. Rigid adherence to this attitude is most praiseworthy and has doubtless tended to intensify sympathy among those who were compelled by the rules to take a serious view of the matter brought to their notice.

Those who have signed the application to the Singapore Amateur Football Association and have voluntarily refunded the sums in regard to the receipt of which they were declared professionals are: Salleh bin Yusoff, Mahmood bin Jali, Mas Nor bin Kasim, Sarip bin Ali, Kassim bin Jali, Dollah bin Ahmad, Yusoff bin Ahmad, Abdul Aziz bin Haji Jaffar, Said bin Sidik, Said bin Yusoff, Zarkasi bin Haji Ibrahim,

P.A.A.F. AMENDMENTS DISPROVED

CRITICISM FOLLOWS IN WAKE OF
OLYMPIC GAMES DISPUTE

BIG SCHEME FOR DEVELOPING PHILIPPINES SPORT

Manila, July 28.
Governor General Frank Murphy was elected honorary president and Senate-President Manuel Quezon was re-elected executive president of the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation at the annual meeting of the board of governors of the Federation at Rizal Memorial Field yesterday afternoon. All the other members of the executive committee of the Federation were re-elected except H. A. Bordner whose place was filled by Dr. Gabriel Manalac.

The board of governors discussed various questions pertaining to the Federation and its members, including amendments to the constitution and changes in the by-laws and heard committee reports and recommendations.

MEMBERS PROTEST.

Three delegates registered their protest at the meeting against the action of the executive committee of the Federation in connection with the dissolution of the Far Eastern Amateur Athletic Association, and had their objections to this action spread upon the records. Those who registered their disapproval of the action were Mark Nestle, representing the Y. M. C. A.; Dr. Hamilton, representing Silliman Institute; and Jose D. Warren, representing the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

After a lengthy discussion the board of governors disapproved the amendment proposed by the N. C. A. A. to the effect that to be eligible to compete in any open games, or meets held under the auspices of the Federation an athlete must have been a bona fide member for one year of that organization which he represents. The amendment was vigorously objected to by Col. H. S. Kerick and Maj. Straughn of the U. S. Army; Prof. Candido Bartolome of the University of the Philippines; and Father Labrador of St. Thomas University. Despite an attempt to push through the proposed amendment by rewording it, 12 voted against the move; 7 voted in favour and 9 abstained from voting. The present rule requires only six months membership before an athlete can compete for an organization.

The board, however, approved the proposed changes in the by-laws as regards girls' indoor baseball rules. These changes relate to the size and dimensions of the diamond, the number of players which shall be 10; baserunning, the pitcher; returning to base; safety on a base and coaching rules.

PROMOTION OF ATHLETICS.

Among the proposals made by Mr. Vargas for the promotion of athletics in the islands were: 1. The construction of stadium in some important provincial centres; 2. To encourage the organization of national associations which may promote their respective sport; 3. The organization of district associations in all parts of the islands which will be authorized to regulate and control amateur meets in the district; 4. The promotion of athletics for women in various branches of sports.

The financial report shows that the Federation has total assets amounting to P1,015,343.82, including the recently constructed stadium. The current liabilities amount to P182,310.95.

The report of the operating department of the Far Eastern Games committee shows that the net profits from the Games amounted to P103,807.91. The total income was P110,257.27 while the expense totalled P6,449.36. Of the income P108,844.31 was for cash sales of ticket sellers; P135.60 shortages of tickets sellers deducted from salaries; P404.21 cash collected at the gate; P374.90 from sales of official programmes; and P500 receipts from concessions. The expenses were for wages, transportation, prizes given to Boy Scouts, supplies and equipment, advertisements, and meals furnished constabulary soldiers.

REPORTS APPROVED.

The board approved the reports of the Philippine contest committee of the Xth Far Eastern Games, with three delegates registering their disapproval of the action of the executive board of the P. A. A. F. in helping to dissolve the F.E.A.A.; the registration committee; the records committee; the track and field committee; the swimming committee; the basketball committee; and the boxing committee. The other committees submitted no reports.

The basketball committee recommended the organization of basketball leagues in the provincial high schools in order to promote this branch of competition.

Prof. Candido Bartolome submitted seven recommendations intended to promote swimming in the islands in behalf of the Philippine Islands swimming association. His recommendations were:

RECOMMENDATIONS.

"1. That a swimming pool be constructed in each province so that inter-town and inter-provincial swimming meets could be held once a year.

"2. That trained physical directors be appointed in every provincial high school in order to direct and take charge of the physical activities in that school as well as in the town where the school is situated.

"3. A careful follow-up of all prospective swimmers should be made from time to time beginning from the elementary grades up to the college. These prospective swimmers should be under expert guidance.

"4. Preparation for an important meet should be nation-wide and should be from two to four years in advance. Intensive preparations should be at least three months in order to give time for the development of the physique of our athletes.

"5. Invite foreign swimming talents in order to excite the enthusiasm of our public and to give incentives to our swimmers to exert their best.

"6. Send our best swimmers to the provinces in order that the youngsters may copy their form. Allow them to instruct the eager swimmers.

"7. Send to foreign countries our best swimmers whenever possible."

ACQUITTALS IN NEW TERRITORIES TEMPLE MURDER TRIAL

CHIEF JUSTICE'S ANALYSIS

WASTE OF TIME TO PROLONG TRIAL ANY FURTHER

FORMAL VERDICTS OF NOT GUILTY

The failure of the Crown to pin the Nam Hang Temple slaying down to either of the two accused led to a sensational conclusion of the murder trial of Lam Sang and his alleged lover, Wong Ying, at the Criminal Sessions this morning, when the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor, instructed the jury to return a verdict of "Not Guilty" against both accused.

The acquittal followed a submission by Mr. Leo D'Almada on behalf of the woman that there was no case to answer.

His Lordship had already ruled against Mr. H. C. Macnamara, appearing for the male accused, on this same point.

The Chief Justice agreed with Mr. D'Almada's submission that the Crown had failed to attach the actual killing to either party and though the jury might think that (a) one of them did it, (b) either of them might have done it, and (c) both of them might have done it, they must in those cases return a verdict in favour of the accused.

The deceased was Chu Kwai, the husband of the woman accused, who had left him to live with Lam Sang.

BATTERED TO DEATH.

The dead man, Chu Kwai, alias Chu Lok, was battered to death in a disused temple at Sap Pat Heung, New Territories, on May 18.

Accused pleaded not guilty and were respectively represented by Mr. H. C. Macnamara, instructed by Mr. F. E. Nash of Messrs. Woo & Nash; and Mr. Leo D'Almada, Jr., instructed by Mr. J. B. Prentiss of Hastings & Co.

The jury empanelled comprised Messrs. O. A. de Carvalho, (Foreman), J. B. Antiquia, Cheng Lok-sang, Tso Yuen-woon, L. S. Castro, C. H. Osmund, and Tse Mee-tack. Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, appeared for the Crown.

When the case was resumed this morning it was stated that Dr. Mackie, who conducted a post mortem examination on the dead man, was unable through illness to attend, and his deposition was accordingly read.

It described extensive wounds on the head and stated that the skull was split and fractured and that death was due to these injuries which had been caused, some by a severe fall and some by a heavy instrument. Death probably took place between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. on May 18.

KAN KOON-MUI RECALLED.

Kan Koon-mui, who alleged that he watched the temple all the time the accused were in it, and Chung Sang-nan, the Chinese doctor who saw the accused and deceased together, were recalled and briefly questioned.

His Lordship remarked that these witnesses flatly contradicted each other as to the times Kan Koon-mui was in the vicinity of the temple.

This concluded the case for the Crown, Mr. D'Almada making a last minute decision not to cross-examine the witnesses.

Mr. Macnamara submitted on behalf of Lam Sang that there was no case to go to the jury. Whilst not wishing to expatiate unduly on the weakness of the evidence for the Crown he wished to point out that the temple was not only not kept under observation, but such observation as there was was of a very intermittent kind. It followed that other persons had the same means of access as accused. It had not been shown that there were no other persons in the temple when the husband and wife entered in the first place; furthermore there was ample time for Chu Kwai to have left the temple and returned with somebody else. As far as motive went, none had been proved against Lam Sang who could be assumed not to have known that there was no evidence of common motive and if it happened that Lam Sang went to the temple to find that the woman had murdered her husband, he was only an accessory after the fact.

"STRONG MOTIVE."

Mr. Fraser replied that there was no evidence that anybody was in the temple but the parties concerned. The murder was done in circumstances which suggested a strong motive and considering that deceased had only recently been borrowing from friends, his poor circumstances would rule out as unlikely a motive of robbery.

His Lordship said: It is not fitting for me at the moment to express my view of the case as a whole. I cannot go to the length of saying that there is no case at all to answer and as far as the first accused is concerned the case must proceed.

Mr. Macnamara said he did not propose to call any evidence.

"NO CASE TO ANSWER."

After some hesitation Mr. D'Almada said he wished to make a similar submission that the Crown had failed to make out a prima facie case.

"I have to convince Your Lordship that there can be no case to answer in the case of the woman. The case was opened and the prisoners were indicted jointly as having murdered deceased."

There was no suggestion in the opening that Mr. Fraser was going to blame one accused more than the other. The suggestion was that they were both concerned in it and Your Lordship put a very pertinent question to him yesterday as to whether he was suggesting joint action or otherwise. My learned friend chose to get out of a dilemma in, to my mind, a very unsatisfactory manner. He said the woman rather than the man, had done it. I consider this a very unfair suggestion. He had no right on the evidence to make that suggestion at all.

Counsel was dealing with the medical evidence when His Lordship interjected: I welcome this opportunity of saying that I am extremely sorry that Dr. Mackie has not been able to come to court as it is by no means clear what happened. It may be that there was a lesser injury which caused deceased to fall and that the other injuries were inflicted while he was on the ground.

"OTHER PEOPLE."

Continuing, Mr. D'Almada said there may have been other people who went into the temple and committed the murder. (Chu Kwai's coat was hanging up. He may have been asleep on the floor when someone came in and killed him in order to rob him.)

There was no suggestion that the woman was in fear of her husband or that he had come to make trouble. No weapon or instrument of any kind was found on the premises and it was not suggested that either of the accused carried weapons. Kan Koon-mui had been proved a liar.

Referring to the judgment on the Ipswich Murder, Counsel said: Unless it is proved definitely that one or the other of these persons did the murder, the only thing Your Lordship can do is to withdraw the case from the jury and discharge them both. All that the Crown have done is to raise grave suspicion but they have not established a prima facie case by any means.

In reply to His Lordship, Mr. Fraser said: I had to admit yesterday that there was no evidence of common purpose. Perhaps I had no right to say what my opinion was. I merely wished to show the argument I would take up when the case came before the jury.

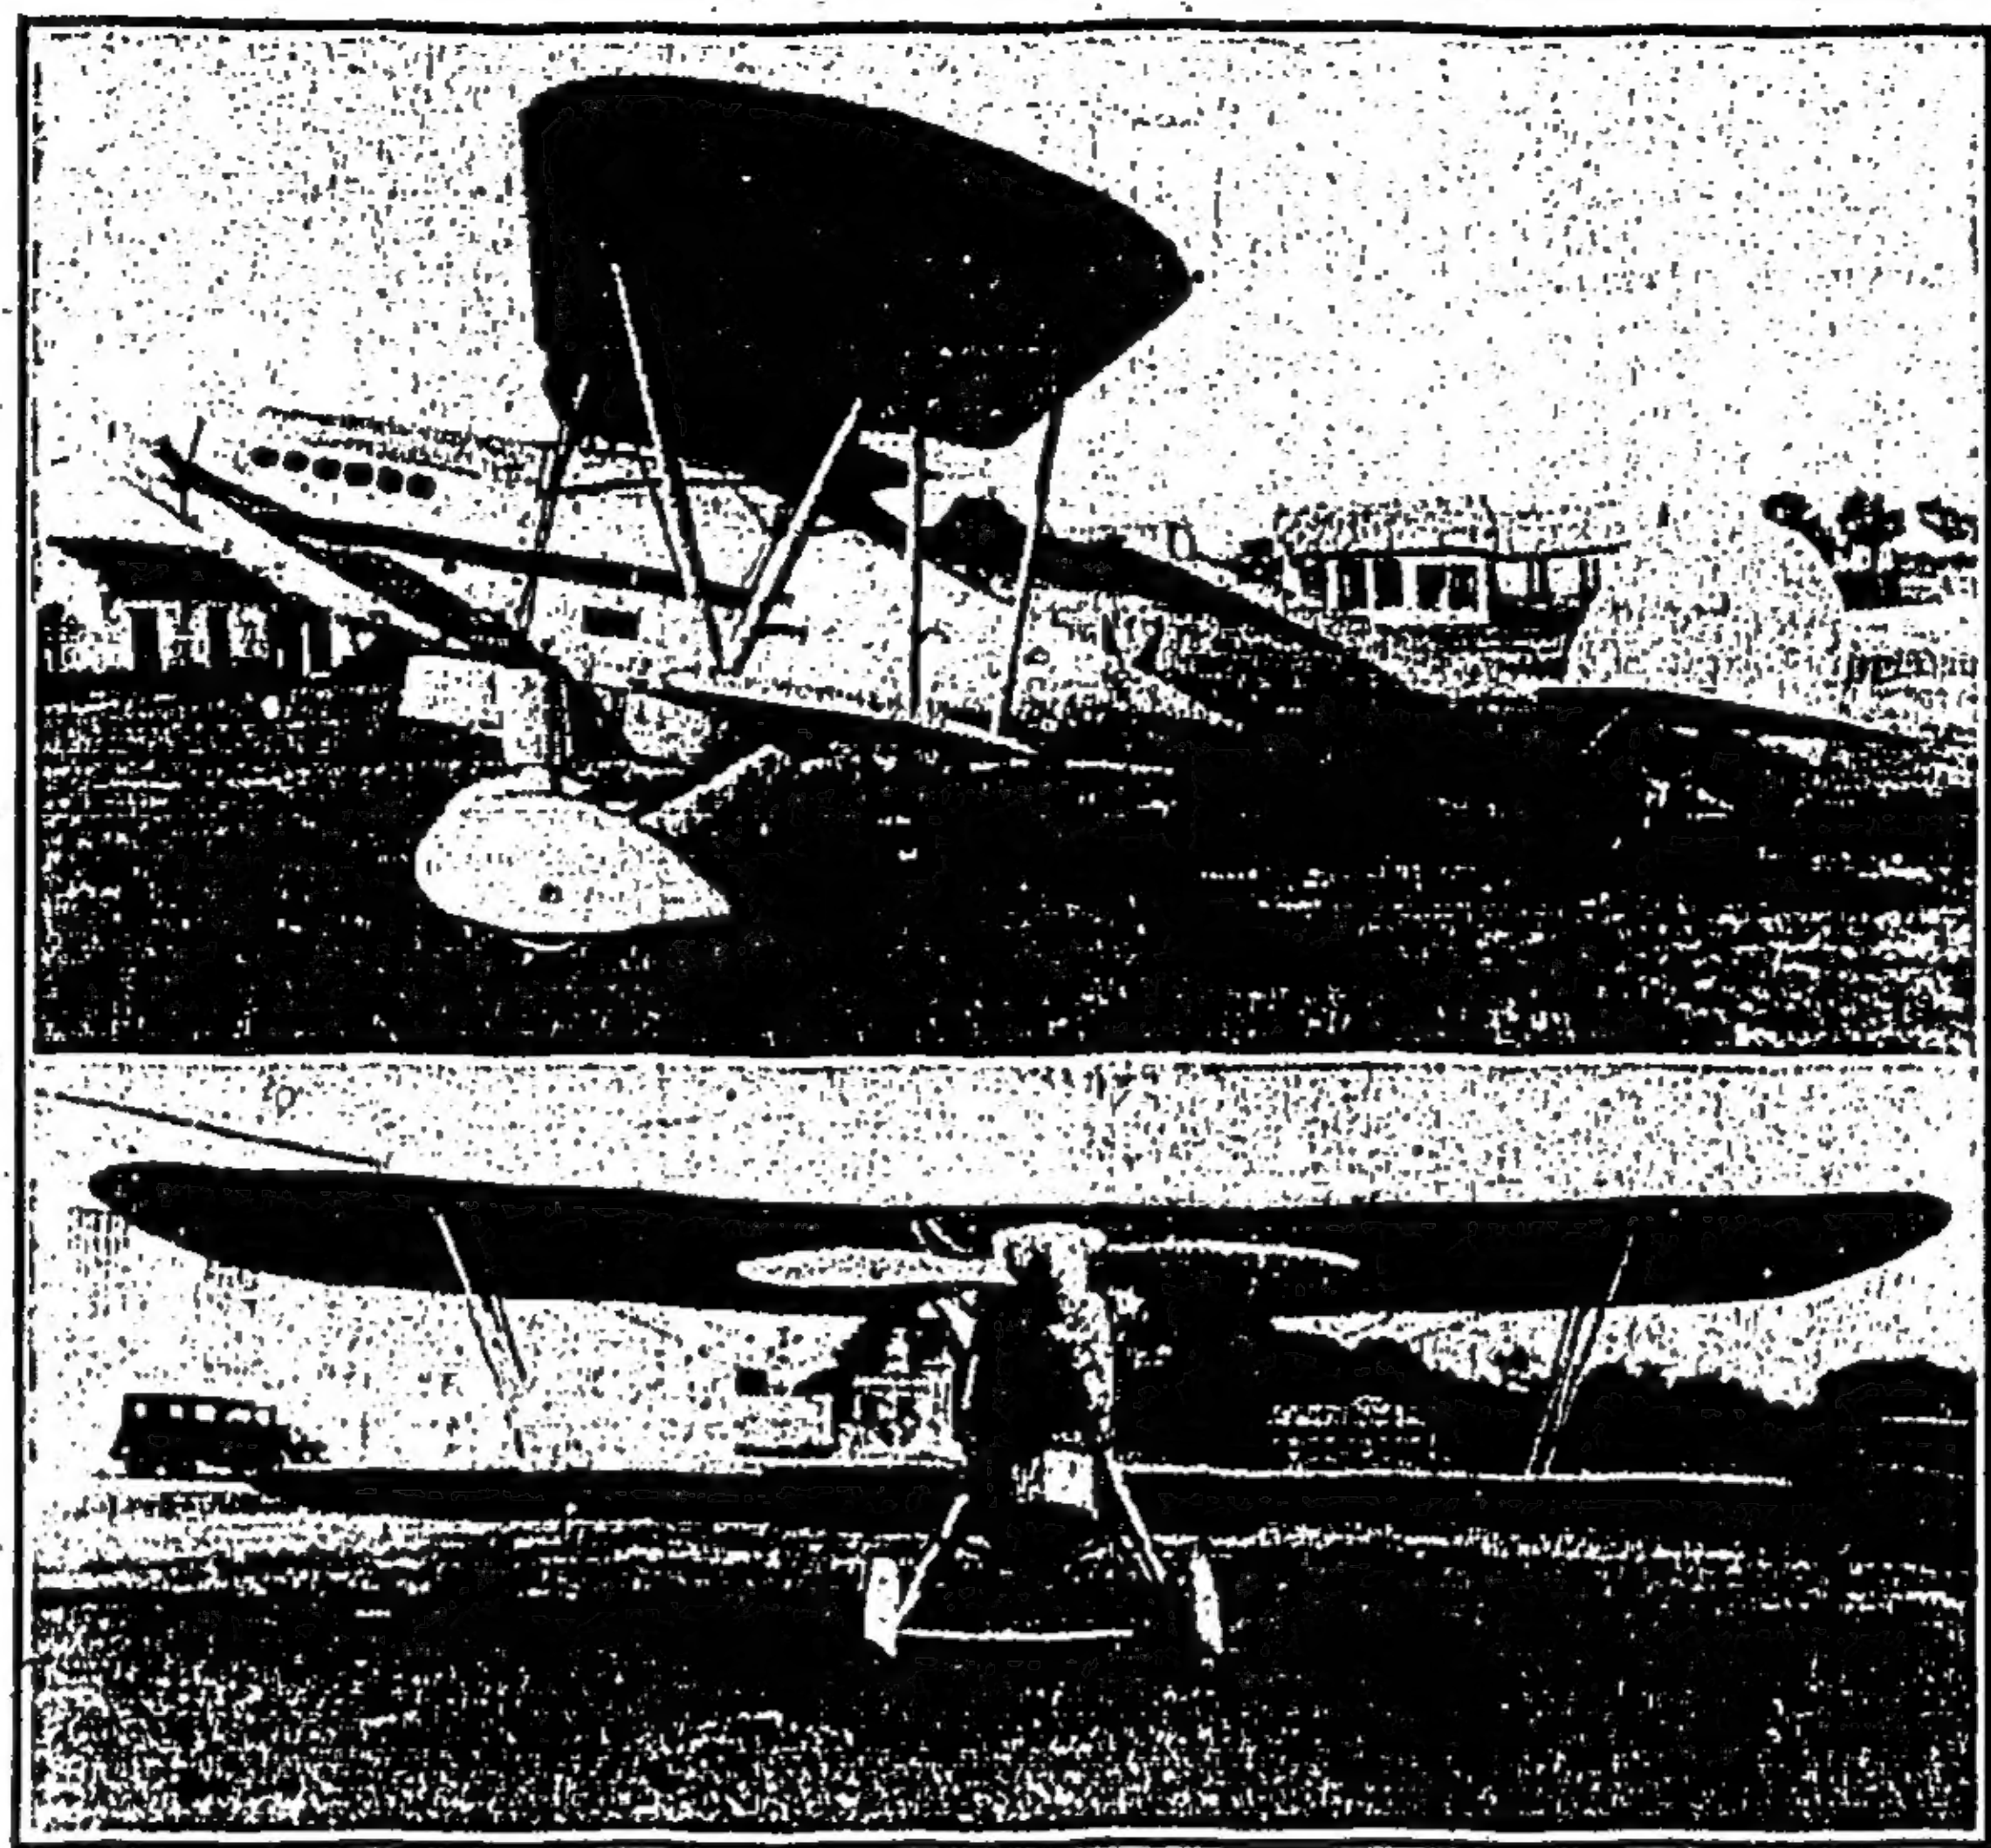

WHAT CHARGE?

His Lordship: The point is that if the case goes to the jury what charge am I to put to them? Even if you accept every word said by the witnesses for the Crown in the entirety, can you say beyond reasonable doubt that the deceased man was murdered by the woman before the man came into the temple, rather than that the female accused kept Chu Kwai in conversation there until the man arrived and murdered him? If you are in doubt, the only course to pursue is to find a verdict of Not Guilty for both.

Mr. Fraser: I agree that the Crown case is not a cast-iron one.

COURT SUMS UP.

Addressing the jury, His Lordship said: The position is a curious one. If either the first or the second accused had stood in the dock alone, there would I think, have been some evidence, though very little indeed, just sufficient to justify me in letting the case go to the jury; but when we take the two accused standing in the dock together, I am quite unable to get over the difficulty that such opportunity as there was applies as much to one as to the other.

I waited until the medical evidence had been given to ascertain if the evidence as to time of death cast any light whatsoever on that difficulty which had up to then defied solution. That evidence gave no help, stating that death occurred between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m., completely covering the whole period of activity of both accused.

If I allowed the case to go further, weak as it is, I cannot conceive of anything happening which would remove from me the duty of informing the jury in due course, that either of the accused might have done it—assuming, of course, that they accept the story of the Crown in its entirety—and that they must therefore find that neither of them did it, and must return a verdict of Not Guilty.

WASTE OF TIME.

As long as that is so, it would be sheer waste of time not to put it on a higher plane, such as consideration of the feelings of the accused—for me to prolong this trial any further and in the light of the course it has followed up to date, I find that the two accused jointly indicted as they are, should not be left any longer to the jury. I am going to call upon the jury for the reason I have endeavoured to explain, to give a formal verdict. It is your bounden duty, even if you think that one of them did it but you don't know which one to return a verdict of Not Guilty.

The jury consulted among themselves and finally asked if they might retire.

His Lordship remained in court until their return a few minutes later when a verdict of Not Guilty was returned and the accused were discharged.

CATHOLIC MISSION PROPERTY: "DISTRICT AUTONOMY"

NINGHSIA AUTHORITIES' CHALLENGE

Peking, July 31.

A message from Ninghsia states that the Provincial authorities are contemplating making a recommendation to the Nanking Government for the cancellation of the land lease held by foreign Catholic missionaries, involving an area of about one hundred square miles around Sanshing-kung, north of Tientsin.

According to the Ninghsia authorities, the land in question was leased to the Catholic Church authorities after the Boxer Rebellion for an annual rental of $2,000, to be paid to the local Mongolian Prince.

Since then, it is stated, the Catholic Church authorities have gradually expanded their control over the local populace, both politically and religiously.

They have virtually established an autonomous government in the territory in question.

The Ninghsia authorities allege that the Catholic Mission in the area collects revenues in the form of land assessments and other kinds of taxes from the people living there up to $400,000 a year, while they only pay the annual rent of $2,000 to the Chinese authorities.—Central News.

BROKER SENT TO GAOL

STORY OF ASSAULT DISPROVED

Allegations that when going out on enquiries with two Chinese detectives, he was taken to a public lavatory and there tied, gagged and beaten, were made by Lo Ki-hing, a broker "dealing in anything", when he appeared before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning on a charge of the unlawful possession of twelve yards of white cloth. The defendant was arrested on Saturday morning.

Detective-Sergeant Gownns:—With regard to his allegations of assault, your Worship, a hospital chit was made out and he was sent to hospital in an ambulance. The detective who took him came back without a hospital chit, and so I telephoned up Dr. Thomas who said that the man bore no marks of assault but was suffering from opium. If left with the police he would only be a nuisance and so he kept him until yesterday morning.

It was further stated that when the defendant was approached in Jubilee Street on Saturday he dropped the cloth and attempted to run away. One detective retrieved the parcel while a second chased the defendant and caught him. Defendant told various stories. When arrested he had only seven cents.

Defendant was convicted. He admitted a previous conviction for theft, and a fine of $50 or one month's hard labour, was imposed.

DEATH OF MR. J. P. WARREN

PASSES AWAY IN LONDON

POPULAR MAN OF COMMERCE

Profound regret will be felt in business and social circles of the Colony at the news of the death of Mr. J. P. Warren, director of Messrs. Dodwell and Co., Ltd., Hongkong, which occurred in London on Sunday, at the age of 58 years.

The late Mr. Warren, who was an Unofficial Justice of the Peace, was taken suddenly ill with a throat affection in May and immediately proceeded home for treatment. Despite all that could be done for him, however, he passed away.

A keen and shrewd business man, Mr. Warren had been associated with Messrs. Dodwell and Co. for nearly forty years. He first joined the firm in Kobe as a junior assistant, and later became manager there. He remained in Kobe for some fifteen years, and was transferred to Hongkong in 1923, remaining with the local office ever since.

COMPANY DIRECTOR.

Mr. Warren, at the time of his departure for home, was Vice-Chairman of the Court of Directors of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, as well as chairman of the Hongkong Brokers and Distillers, and a director of the Union Insurance Society of Canton, the Hongkong Electric Co., the Hongkong Telephone Co., the Dairy Farm, Ice and Cold Storage Co., and Lane, Crawford, Ltd. He had also served on the directorates of the Star Ferry Co., the Godown Co., the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Co., and the China Fire Insurance Co.

A charming personality, Mr. Warren, who was a bachelor, was immensely liked by all who enjoyed his friendship. He was a man of sterling character and of a most kindly disposition. A keen walker, he was a familiar figure on the byways of the island, and was also keenly interested in climbing, fishing and shooting.

The flag of the Hongkong Club, of which he was a member, was flown at halfmast to-day as a mark of respect to the deceased.

Solution to Previous
Contract Problem

Do you remember, in the days of auction, that we were afraid of a four-card suit, due to the fact that we never really knew whether we had a proper fit with our partner, or whether it was the proper declaration?

Take, for example, to-day's hand. South has a perfect four-card suit bid in spades, and his partner has normal support. However, North also has a five-card suit, and South has a perfect fit there.

♠ Q 10 8 2	♥ K Q 10 5 4	♦ 8 2	♣ J 7
♠ 6 4 3	♥ J 3 2	♦ A 6 3	♣ A K Q 5
♠ A K 9 7	♥ A 9 7 6	♦ K 10	♣ 9 4 3
♠ 5 4 3	♥ 5 4 3	♦ 5 4	♣ 2

Duplicate—N. and S. vul.
Opening lead—♠ K.

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Double	2 ♠	3 ♠
3 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

As a result, in auction, we might find ourselves playing the hand at hearts, instead of spades. Even to-day at contract, some players will make the mistake of getting into the wrong declaration.

When your partner opens with a four-card suit, and you believe you have all the cards necessary to fill in that suit, although you have a five-card major of your own, don't be too sure that the hand must be played in your major. Remember that contract is a partnership game, and it is up to you and your partner to try to arrive at the proper contract.

The Bidding

Over West's double, North's bid of two hearts is highly constructive. I think East's bid of three diamonds rather optimistic. South shows a fit in his partner's suit by a bid of three hearts.

North's bid of three spades is then made to show partner a fit in the original spade suit. This is all the information that South needs. If his partner holds four hearts and four spades, undoubtedly the same tricks will be made in either suit.

However, it is safer to have the diamond suit led up to rather than through. While North happened to hold five hearts, the fifth heart can be used for a valuable discard, as you will see in the play.

The Play

However, against a four-spade contract, West with cash his king and queen of clubs, and will now probably shift to a heart, which will be won in dummy with the king. Now the spade suit is started.

Today's Contract Problem

If South were to arrive at a six-heart contract, and you held the West hand, what opening would you make and why?

♠ A 8	♥ 10 6 4	♦ K 10 6 3	♣ J 10 3 2
♠ 7 6 5 4	♥ 5 4 3	♦ 5 4	♣ A 9 8 7 6 4
♠ A Q 7 5	♥ A Q 7 6	♦ A Q 7 6	♣ A Q 7 6
♠ K J	♥ K J	♦ K J	♣ K J

ed, three rounds of spades being taken.

Then the declarer runs off the heart suit and discards the losing diamond on the fifth heart. The losing club, of course, can be ruffed in dummy with the spade.

All the declarer has to lose is a diamond and two clubs.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Damon Runyon, noted writer of sports for newspapers and chronicler of the night-life of Broadway for the magazines, is being hailed as the "O. Henry of 1933." His fiction yarns are steeped in the same vivid colours as those of the man who was recognized as America's greatest writer of short stories. The dialogue of his characters is slangy, of the moment, just like that of the men and women who peopled O. Henry's pages. And many of the Runyon tales have at their very end the smashing, unexpected climax that marked those of the late master. The stories contained in his book "Dames and Guys" are described as being the most accurate and at the same time amusing short narratives ever written about Broadway and its folk. "Madam La Gimp," written since those stories, is one of his masterpieces. It was so striking and full of action that the Columbia Studios in Hollywood bought it for production as soon as it appeared retitled "Lady For A Day." It is now showing at the King's Theatre. The film stars Warren William and features May Robson, Guy Kibbee, Glenda Farrell, Ned Sparks, Jean Parker and Barry Norton. It was directed by Columbia's ace, Frank Capra.

"Let's Fall in Love"

From a circus concession attendant to a glamorous motion picture star! That is the transformation undergone by Ann Southern, newest Columbia screen discovery, in the romantic Hollywood musical, "Let's Fall in Love," which opens at the King's Theatre on Wednesday. Proving that Hollywood can be fooled, Edmund Lowe, cast as a motion picture director in this captivating production, finds Miss Southern working in a circus. She is the type he needs for a certain picture, but he realizes she won't have a chance unless she is given a huge build-up. So he teaches her Swedish, buys her a stunning wardrobe, introduces her as "off the boat," and an enviable motion picture contract results. David Norton directed "Let's Fall in Love," which is based on an original story and screen play by Herbert Fields. Arlen and Keeler, authors of "Stormy Weather," "Minnie the Moother," and many other hits, composed the tunes featured in "Let's Fall in Love." Miriam Jordan, Tala Birell, Gregory Raloff and Arthur Jarrett enact the featured supporting roles.

"The Woman Between"

The efforts of the playwright, Miles Malleon, the producer, Miles Mander, and the stage players, Owen Nares, Adrienne Allen, David Hawthorne and C. M. Hallard, have combined in the most striking film that has come from Elstree Studios. Entitled "The Woman Between," the story is adapted from Malleon's play, "Conflict," and is an engrossing drama of passions and politics. Full of tense and powerful situations with sparkling dialogue and clever characterization, this film is everybody's entertainment. Miles Mander, whose polished acting and production of both stage and screen dramas, has directed this British international picture, and has as his command artists of distinction and talent. Adrienne Allen plays the title role and her appearance will be eagerly anticipated by all who saw her in "Loose Ends." Owen Nares is, as ever, a universal favourite, and his portrayal of the gentleman who has known the depths of poverty and suffering before making a come-back into political life, is the best he has yet given on the screen. David Hawthorne and C. M. Hallard also place at the screen's disposal many years' acting experience. Everyone who appreciates powerful drama, fine acting and brilliant dialogue should make a point of seeing "The Woman Between," which is showing for the last times to-day at the Queen's Theatre.

HERONS, EGRETS OR STORKS?

POLICE DEBATE WITH HAWKER

There was a debate in the Central Charge Room yesterday. It happened this way.

An Indian constable brought a Chinese man in for hawking live white birds as food for man.

Sub-Inspector McEwen, who was on Bench duty, entered the birds on the charge sheet as egrets. The defendant, named Tam Sun, stated they were storks.

When the case was called before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning, the birds were exhibited in a cage, and the Magistrate exclaimed:—

What are they?

Sub-Inspector McEwen:—They are a species of heron, your Worship. We had a debate as to what they really are.

The Magistrate:—I don't think they can be called food for man when alive. They may subsequently become food for man.

S. I. McEwen:—I have had enquiries made and these birds come from Kwongchawan, Indo-China. They are sold in the Western Market.

His Worship:—Only as food for man?

S. I. McEwen:—They are also bought as pets.

The Magistrate:—That is the point. They are not only food for man. The charge should be one simply of hawking without a licence.

The constable, in evidence, stated that he saw the defendant selling herons.

Defendant: I bought these storks for myself. I was thinking of eating one and sending the rest to Canton for sale. I bought them for 35 cents each.

S. I. McEwen:—From enquiries made, the defendant bought twenty of these birds from the Western market, and has sent some to Canton.

Defendant admitted a previous conviction in 1932 and was fined $2 or four days.

The Magistrate:—I am sure there will be no objection to sending all the birds to Canton, but you must not hawk them here without a licence.

GERMAN AGITATION IN AUSTRIA

BRITAIN TO TAKE NO ACTION

London, July 30.

Sir John Simon to-day replied to Parliamentary questions on the subject of German interference in Austrian internal affairs.

He said that in February last, and again recently, he received from the Austrian Government a collection of material indicating considerable German influence in propaganda against the Austrian Government and in a series of outrages committed on Austrian territory. He understood that the material was also communicated by the Austrian Government to the Italian and French Governments.

NO ACTION CALLED FOR.
In acknowledging its receipt, he informed the Austrian Minister that whilst the British Government had no intention whatever of interfering with the internal affairs of another country, they fully recognised the right of Austria to demand that there should be no interference with her internal affairs from any other quarter. The views of the British Government on this matter remained unchanged.

Further asked what steps the Government were taking to preserve Austria's independence, Sir John Simon said the British Government were continuing to watch the situation carefully, but no action on their part was at present called for or in contemplation.—British Wireless.

London, July 30.

To-day in the Commons, Sir Philip Sassoon, Under-Secretary for Air, informed Mr. William Nunn that the establishment of a branch from the England-Australia Air Line to Hongkong and Shanghai is being considered; but negotiations are insufficiently advanced for a statement at the present time.—Reuter.

WELSH FUSILIERS COMING

DUE IN COLONY IN NOVEMBER

Under the provisional troop programme for the 1934-35 season the Dorsetshire is due to arrive here on November 9 and leave for the north on the same day. She will return on November 30 and proceed to the United Kingdom, calling at intermediate ports embarking and disembarking troops details.

The Somersetshire arrives here on November 22 with the 2nd Bn. Royal Welsh Fusiliers on board. They will disembark and the vessel will proceed to Shanghai and the northern ports, returning on November 29 to embark the 1st Bn. South Wales Borderers for India.

The Somersetshire makes her second trip to the Far East in January next year and will arrive in Hongkong on February 27 with details for Far Eastern stations. She returns to the United Kingdom the following month.

"B. P." TO VISIT FAR EAST

LADY BADEN-POWELL AS WELL

Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell, the Chief Scout, is to pay a visit to the Far East before the end of the year.

The news is unexpected because it was only a few months ago that Lord Baden-Powell was seriously ill and had to undergo two serious operations and take an extended sea voyage before he was restored to normal health. His decision to make the trip overseas is probably partly inspired by a desire to avoid the rigours and dangers of an English winter.

The Chief Scout and Lady Baden-Powell will leave London on October 27, in the Orient liner Orama and will change ships at Colombo for a tour of the Straits, China and Japan, after which they go on to Australia to attend the Centenary celebrations.
